Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Cheered on by more than 300,000 spectators, including 75,000 in the big stadium, Juan Carlos Zabala, 20-year-old Argentine runner, outraced two British rivals and a pair of Finnish challengers today to capture the classic Olympic marathon in record time.

First South American to capture the crowning honors of Olympic foot racing, Zabala justified his position of favorite by running a front race nearly all the way, outlasting all rivals in an exciting battle over the last six miles, an finishing strongly, in the stadium, amid a tumult of acclaim.

Ripping off the handkerchief bound around his head, Zabala acknowledged the big crowd's roar as he swung around the last turn and broke the tape in 2 hours 31 minutes 36 seconds.

Beats 1920 Record Time.

His time for the 26 miles, 385 yards surpassed the previous Olympic record of 2:32:35.8, set by Hanneh Kolehmainen, of Finland, in the 1920

'Wind Forces Tent Down on 125 Worshipers; Many Women Trapped.

Pottstown, Pa., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—more than 125 worshipers were thrown into a panic tonight when the tent in which they were holding evangelical services at Limerick, four miles east of here, was blown down during a severe wind and electrical storm. Only three persons were known to be injured.

About 300 persons were in the tent when the storm broke. Because many persons present had automobiles parked in a recently plowed field and threatened to become mire, the preacher cut short the service.

Most of those who remained behind were women. The lights suddenly went out, and then the water-soaked tent top began to slide toward the roadway.

The worshipers grabbed the center tent poles and were trying to hold them down when another wind blast sent the canvas tumbling. Those on the outside and three garage men managed to drag most of the victims free.

Head-On Crash Kills One and Injures 3

Two Men Held in Bond at Winchester for Hearing Today on Accident.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 7.—One man is dead, three persons are injured and two men are out on $500 bail pending a hearing tomorrow as the result of a head-on collision between two West Virginia automobiles on the Charlestown-Berryville pike early today.

Wilmer Carper, 25, of Middleway, W. Va., is dead from a fractured neck while his brother, James Carper, and their companions, Emma and Elizabeth Sipe, of Berryville, are in Winchester Memorial Hospital with injuries. They were occupants of the auto which the fatally injured man was driving.

Joe J. Cain, railroad employe of Harpers Ferry, W. Va., who was driving the other machine, and his companion, C. A. Mobley, of Brunswick, Md., were held on $500 bond for a hearing tomorrow in Clarke County Trial Court in connection with the collision.

Family Plans Ocean Flight From Capital

Col. Hutchinson, Wife and Two Daughters Expect to Leave Washington Next Monday on Cruise to Scotland.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The "flying family," Col. George Hutchinson, his wife and two daughters, announced tonight they would attempt a transatlantic flight within the next ten days.

The daughters, Kathryn, 8, and Janet Lee, 6 years old, will do their geography lessons as the plane roars across the ocean.

Starting from Washington, probably next Monday, the family will follow the extreme northern route over Labrador, Iceland and the Faroe Islands. They expect to set down at Edinburgh, Scotland, their first European port, on the fourth day.

The Hutchinsons, who have flown more than 100,000 miles together during the last six years, will make the trip in a two-motored Sikorsky amphibian, cabin type. It has a capacity of ten passengers, a cruising radius of seven to seven and a half hours at a speed of 110 miles an hour.

Accompanying the family will be Peter Redpath, navigator, and John Ruff, motor expert.

Col. Hutchinson will handle the controls while Mrs. Hutchinson performs housekeeping chores and tutors the children.

The last obstacle in the path of the flight was removed recently, Col. Hutchinson said, when he negotiated successfully for the fuel stores established at Godthaab and Angmagssalik, Greenland, for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's proposed northern route flight last year.

The plane is now at Bridgeport, Conn., undergoing final testings. It will be flown to Newark, N. J., probably on Wednesday, where additional equipment will be taken aboard, and later in the week the party will fly to Washington to obtain necessary documents.

The children are seasoned air passengers. Kathryn has 1,040 flying hours to her credit and Janet Lee 900 hours.

BRAZIL REBELS ASK WAR BE RECOGNIZED

Notes Handed to Consuls at Sao Paulo Seek Open Ports and Cables.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Brazilian constitutionalists handed to the foreign consuls at Sao Paulo notes today asking that their nations recognize that a state of belligerency exists next Tuesday, when the Sao Paulo revolution will be a month old, said reports received here.

The purpose was to obtain at least a partial reopening of cables and ports closed because the foreign governments and companies complied with a notification of closure from the Brazilian federal government.

The rebels contended that international law authorized the proposed procedure, but international lawyers here, while admitting that an ingenious point had been raised, said they felt the contention lacked merit.

Precedents were scant, but the United States Civil War offered a partial parallel in England's attempt to run the Union's blockade of the Confederacy. The Paulists have not seceded like the Confederacy.

The constitutionalists recited that in Sao Paulo and in Matto Grosso 8,000,000 persons have been in full and continuous rebellion for one month, maintaining order, protecting foreign interests and controlling all territory except what was abandoned for strategic reasons.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Opposing forces in the Sao Paulo rebellion began the fifth week of the conflict today with their positions relatively unchanged, except that the federals claimed progress in the direction of vital communications.

On the northern front the federal forces reported they were attacking the Mantequeteira Tunnel.

The stream of federal reinforcements was continuing.

Noted Surgeon Is Flying To Mystery Operation

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Dr. Fred Albee, famed New York bone surgeon, is flying to Caracas, Venezuela, to perform an operation on a patient whose identity he does not know.

Before leaving this morning, Dr. Albee said: "I am going to Caracas at the request of the Venezuelan secretary of state. I do not know who the patient is nor the nature of the case, but I presume it is some one high in government circles." He added that he believed the operation would be to correct an injury caused by an automobile accident.

BRITONS AT OTTAWA CAUCUS ON BARGAINS

May Scale Counter Offer to Canada on Preferences as Experts Report.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Bargaining over plans for trade agreements among countries in the British commonwealth of nations is scheduled to begin tomorrow at the Imperial Economic Conference here.

Australian and British experts were in consultation most of today considering Australian proposals and British counter-proposals. The British "cabinet" of seven met tonight to consider the report of the British experts on Canada's offer of preference for preference and to determine what counter-proposals Great Britain would make to Canada.

The British are understood to hold in their report that the potential value of the Canadian offer, in terms of British export trade, is considerably below estimates mentioned in preliminary discussions.

It was therefore expected that the British delegation would either urge that the field of the Canadian offer be widened, or would scale the counter-offer to Canada on the terms of the experts' report.

Unless the British delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference receives instructions from London be-

Forecast 'Not So Warm' After Sunday High of 93

The temperature yesterday reached a high of 93 degrees at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Weather Bureau. At the same time the kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue registered 98 degrees.

The humidity yesterday was 80 degrees at 8 o'clock in the morning, 63 degrees at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 70 degrees at 8 o'clock last night. The forecast for today is fair and not so warm, and for tomorrow fair, with slowly rising temperature.

1 Dead, 30 Ill From Food Served After Funeral

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Food served at a dinenr after a funeral was blamed by police tonight for the death of one man and the illness of about 30 other mourners.

The dead man was John Heim, 40, of Frackville, near here. His five sons, Herman, Walter, Jack, Gilbert and Maurice, ranging in ages from 8 to 19 years, also were stricken, but were expected to recover.

22 Fishermen Die as Boat Upsets Near Spanish Coast

Two Survivors of Gale Are Rescued After 52 Hours in Water; Third Is Picked Up, But Despairingly Leaps Overboard and Perishes.

Vigo, Spain, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Twenty-two fishermen were lost in the sea when the fishing motorboat Asana capsized in a strong northerly gale off Cangas Demorrazo several days ago, it was learned with the return of only two survivors to the port today.

The survivors, Manuel Castro Torren, 27, and Vicente Sota Perol, 21, were picked up by the Norwegian steamer Kertiedre. They were exhausted by cold and fatigue after 52 hours in the water.

Villagers of Cangas Demorrazo, having put faith in the report that all were saved, were seized with grief and anguish when they learned the truth.

Six of the fishermen were caught in nets with the overturn of the boat and drowned immediately. The other 18 clung to the keel of the boat and dropped off one at a time as fatigue overtook them.

When four were left they tried in vain to right the craft. One perished of exhaustion in the midst of the effort.

The coxswain, Antonio Iglesia, was rescued from the water by the Kertiedre, but in a moment of despair he jumped overboard and perished.

MOB'S ATTACK CAUSES DEATH OF POLICEMAN

Private Milo J. Kennedy, of Park Force, Dies From Injuries.

15 SUSPECTS SEIZED; PISTOL FOUND ON ONE

Victim Terribly Beaten, Presumably by Friends of Pair He Arrested.

Private Milo J. Kennedy, 28 years old, of the United States Park Police, died shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Garfield Hospital, as the result of a brutal beating at the hands of a mob twelve hours before, as he sought to arrest one of their number at Logan Circle.

Homicide squad detectives, Second Precinct police and park police were spurred by the news of the death in an already intensive drive to arrest all those responsible or having knowledge of the crime. Fourteen Negroes were under arrest on investigation booking at the Second Precinct last night.

Irving Murray, 23-year-old Negro of Hamilton, Loudon County, Va., was arrested at that place yesterday afternoon and Kennedy's gun was said by police to have been found in his possession. He was arrested at Hamilton, which is 10 miles from Leesburg, by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, of Fairfax, at the request of Washington authorities.

Victim Badly Beaten.

Kennedy's gun and night stick were taken away from him by the angry crowd after he had been struck unconscious by a swiftly-thrown brick. His skull was fractured, all his teeth were knocked out and his head and face were badly lacerated, as was his body. Police expressed belief he never had a chance.

Joseph J. Jackson, 20, of 1320 Thirteenth street northwest, was said to be the man Kennedy was arresting on a disorderly conduct charge when he was struck by the brick. Police said most of those arrested were friends of Jackson, and were present in Logan Circle Park at the time of the attack.

Arrests Aroused Feeling.

Police believe feeling against Kennedy began to arise shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night when he arrested two young Negroes in the park under charges of disorderly conduct. They were booked by him at the Second Precinct on those charges, but these counts were changed to ones of investigation last night as there

11 Saved as Boats Collide on Lake

Tug and Yacht Crash Off Sylvan Beach, N. Y.; None Dead.

Sylvan Beach, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Eleven persons were rescued from Oneida Lake, a mile from here, after a collision of the tug Matton 10, out of Waterford, and a sightseeing yacht, the Agnes, shortly after 9 o'clock tonight.

Four of the eleven persons who were distributed on the two craft were rescued almost immediately after the two boats crashed. Two hours later State police of the Oneida Barracks said that seven still were not accounted for, but later it was learned that a second sightseeing craft had picked up from the waters all the missing persons.

Capt. Withey of the Agnes, among the last to be located, was unconscious. He had drifted in a life preserver. The rescuers immediately began resuscitation work.

6 Burned to Death In Waukegan Hotel

Firemen Told All Guests Escaped, but Bodies Are Found in Ruins.

Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Fire, which swept through the ancient frame structure of the Maywood Hotel here early today, caused the deaths of six men. The west wing of the building which housed the victims was burned to the ground before the fire was brought under control. Origin of the fire, which did damage estimated at $20,000, was undetermined.

Tony Durka, proprietor, said he was aroused by a frightened guest and ran through the place sounding an alarm. He told firemen all of the guests had made their way to safety, but a roll call revealed six missing.

Making their way into the burning building firemen came upon the bodies. Five men apparently had died of suffocation. One had been burned to death in his bed.

BOLIVIAN PLANE REPORTED SHOT DOWN IN CHACO

Paraguayans Capture 2 Air Lieutenants, Is Claim.

BOTH NATIONS SPUR WAR PREPARATIONS

Dissatisfaction Appears at Asuncion Over Trend of Diplomatic Efforts.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Two Bolivian aviators were reported captured today when their plane was shot down and destroyed within the Paraguayan lines in the Gran Chaco.

The fact that the plane was reported to have fallen southeast of Fort Gen. Aquino, which is 20 miles east of Fort Chanar, one of the southeast Bolivian forts, give consistence to rumors circulated lately that Bolivians continued to reconnoiter the Paraguayan forts.

Fort Chanar is situated in the middle swamps of Estero Patino, 25 miles southeast of Fort Sorpresa.

Although there was no official comment on the situation, the Associated Press was informed by a usually reliable source that the government was sending a new note to the neutral powers, possibly tonight.

Paraguayan General Resigns.

The army staff said the Bolivian plane was shot down at 6 o'clock last night. The pilot and an observer, Lieuts. Elias del Monte and Armando Saavedra Goitia, were captured, the announcement said.

Military leaders throughout Paraguay hastened preparations today for possible clashes with Bolivia in the disputed Gran Chaco region.

There were reports that both Paraguay and Bolivia were reinforcing their military strength at the various Chaco forts and announcement of a change in Paraguayan military leaders.

Gen. Ayala, chief of staff, resigned and was replaced provisionally by Maj. Arturo Bray.

Element Is Dissatisfied.

Another contingent of troops left last night for the sector where the Bolivians recently have been pressing harder.

A considerable group in Paraguay, although pacificistic and not vociferous in the present controversy, was reported to view with dissatisfaction the present trend of diplomacy in connection with the Chaco question, including Paraguay's unreserved acceptance of the Pan-American proposal for arbitration of the differences on the basis of the positions held by the armed forces of the two nations in the Chaco territory on June 1.

This group was represented as believing that even had Bolivia accepted the proposal unreservedly it would merely mean commencing again protracted negotiations without prospect of a definite result.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Both branches of Congress have sent a petition to President Daniel Salamanca asking for the organization of a concentration cabinet.

Public opinion was reported calm today, while the country celebrated a public holiday.

Some 20,000 school children paraded through the main streets and gathered at the foot of the Bolivar monument in Venezuela Square, where they sang the national anthem and other patriotic hymns.

Four Pledge Neutrality In Gran Chaco Dispute

Buenos Aires, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru ratified a pact today binding the signers to maintain the strictest neutrality in event of war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco boundary dispute.

The pact, suggested by Argentina, is complementary to the declaration of the nineteen neutral American nations last week that territorial changes resulting from warfare would not be recognized.

Coolidge Forgoes Notifcation Rites

Believes Presence Is Not Essential at Hoover Ceremonies.

(Associated Press.)

Calvin Coolidge is going to pass up President Hoover's formal notification ceremony here Thursday night. The former President, of course, was invited, but he has decided it is Mr. Hoover's show and will not be present.

Republican leaders do not regard the decision as significant. Mr. Coolidge expressly declared for the renomination of President Hoover and his support of the nominee is not questioned.

The decision is seen as one of many Mr. Coolidge has been called upon to make as to just what part a former President plays in official life.

NEW MORATORIUM OPPOSED BY BORAH

Wants Plan Assuring U. S. Taxpayer of Receiving Better Than Debts.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Senator William E. Borah, in a telegram read at the Newport summer conference, today opposed extension of the international moratorium or debt revision except under "a program which gives reasonable assurance the American taxpayer will receive better than the debts."

"I do not favor further moratorium," Borah's telegram said. "It would not materially help conditions. Readjustment on a basis of capacity to pay would be almost equally ineffective. Neither or both would open markets or start trade.

"But, if the postwar program, as reparations, debts, armaments, restoration of gold standard, stabilization of silver for the Orient, can be accepted, then I am willing to see the debt used in any way to make the program a success.

"In other words, readjustment or cancellation should be made to depend upon a program which gives reasonable assurance that the American taxpayer will receive better than the debts."

Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy and founder of the conference, criticized the foreign policies of the State Department.

"We need something besides the great American missionary mind," he said. "It is all right to meddle when it does no harm, but it is a bad thing to muddle."

Elon H. Hooker, chairman of the American Defense Society, charged that "this country is being victimized

B. E. F. Is Offered Big Mexico Tract

Los Angeles Realty Man Tells Doak Carter He Has 15,000 Acres.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Charles P. Reiniger, Los Angeles real estate man, said tonight he had offered 15,000 acres of farm land in the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, rent free to the "Bonus Expeditionary Force."

Here on a visit, Reiniger said he made the offer to Doak Carter, chief of staff of the B. E. F., who has expressed a desire to establish a colony in Mexico. Reiniger said Carter had not decided whether to accept.

"I offer you 15,000 acres of the best agricultural land on the North American continent, with ample water and with approximately 20 mile frontage on the Casa Grande River," Reiniger said in a telegram to Carter. The offer was for "one year or five years—or until bonus is paid."

ABDUCTED BANKER FOUND NEAR DEATH

Financier Convicted After Closing of Depository Tells of Beating.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Near death from a terrific beating, John B. Colegrove, Taylorville, Ill., banker under sentence for alleged irregularities in connection with the failure of his institution three years ago, was found lying on a friend's lawn here today.

The banker, kidnaped Friday and thought to have been slain, was taken to a hospital where he told the story of his capture and imprisonment.

Colegrove said he had been attacked in his home Thursday night by two men who beat him, bound him, and after driving around nearly all night, threw him into a field northeast of the city.

He related that after struggling with his bonds for nearly 20 hours, he succeeded in extricating himself. He then made his way into Springfield, walking along railroad tracks. Staggering to the home of Frank Lowe, he collapsed in the yard where he lay until found this morning.

Because of his dishevelled appearance he was mistaken for a tramp and police were summoned. At the police station he identified himself and was given medical aid. He was suffering from severe lacerations, one hand was badly smashed, and an arm dangled limply, apparently paralyzed from the tightness of the ropes which had held him.

Because of his condition, Colegrove was not questioned thoroughly by police, nor given an opportunity to view the two men being held as his suspected kidnapers, James Gammatoni, 35, and Amelio Puzzoti, 32.

Both men were arrested shortly after Colegrove's disappearance while riding in a blood-stained car which fitted the description of the one in which Colegrove was abducted. The clothing of both bore blood stains which, police said, Gammatoni explained were from a rabbit they had killed and thrown into the car.

Gammatoni had lost $5,000 in the failure of Colegrove's bank. Puzzoti lived with him.

Hundreds of Lives Lost In Manchurian Floods

Harbin, Manchuria, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Hundreds of lives have been lost and winter famine faces tens of thousands of persons as a result of floods which today submerged the cities of Hailin, Ilan, Mudandzan and half of Harbin.

Railroads were paralyzed and rowboats provided the only means of transportation in the cities. Cholera menaced the homeless, taking 53 lives at Tsitsihar.

Discovery of Milk Hormone Held Aid to Health of Young

Carnegie Institution Announces Isolation of Prolactin, Gland Secretion That Stimulates Production of Mother's Milk; May Prevent Child Ills.

(Associated Press.)

A possible new aid to health of babies has been found, for scientists have discovered the hormone or gland secretion that causes production of mothers' milk.

This information came yesterday from the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Public health authorities here said the new knowledge, if substantiated, might be useful in treatment of mothers who produce insufficient milk for their babies. They hailed the discovery as an important addition to medical and genetical knowledge.

Milk of a baby's own mother is considered the best possible nourishment for it because the milk is "made to order" for that particular infant, and hence is better than bottle feeding. The mother's milk also seems able to protect a new-born baby against some childhood diseases up to the age of 6 months.

The newly isolated homone is a secretion of the pituitary gland, located at the base of the skull behind the root of the nose. The same gland secretes two other hormones that influence bodily growth and sex activity.

Hormones are chemical substances

LIBBY HOLMAN PLANS TO GIVE SELF UP TODAY

Counsel Says She Will Immediately Seek Habeas Corpus.

HER WHEREABOUTS REMAINS MYSTERY

Sheriff Satisfied by Promise Widow of Reynolds Will Surrender.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Libby Holman, Broadway singer of blues songs, will surrender tomorrow to face an indictment for the murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds, and will stake her hope of avoiding incarceration in jail on immediate habeas corpus proceedings.

Counsel for the dark-haired musical revue favorite made this announcement today after conferring with her father, Alfred Holman, Cincinnati attorney, who later set the probable time of her appearance as between noon and 2 p. m. tomorrow. He withheld the information as to her whereabouts tonight, or how she was traveling.

William Graves, of Winston-Salem, who is associated with Benet Polikoff, another local attorney in the defense, said Libby would surrender here.

Promise Satisfies Sheriff.

Sheriff Transou Scott, who instigated the investigation into the mysterious fatal shooting of the 20-year-old heir to one-fourth of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, said he was satisfied with Holman's promise to deliver his daughter into custody without further delay.

Defense attorneys appeared optimistic over the prospect of obtaining the privilege of bail for their client, especially since her codefendant, Albert (Ab) Walker, 19-year-old chum of young Reynolds, was released in $25,000 bond yesterday after habeas corpus proceedings at which the state announced it did not have evidence to support a first degree murder charge against him.

Move Must Await Arrest.

Just where Libby's effort to obtain bail would take place remained undetermined today.

Graves and Polikoff said they were prepared to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus as soon as she is in custody, pointing out that under the law they can not move while a defendant is still at large.

They said they did not know what Judge would be asked to order the hearing.

Mrs. Reynolds' attorneys said they desired to hold the hearing as soon as possible because of the client's condition. They described her as still suffering from the shock of her husband's tragic death, as well as being on the road to motherhood.

2 Killed and 4 Hurt When Canopy Falls

Victims Trapped Beneath 20 Tons of Debris; Another May Die.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Two people were killed and four others injured, one probably fatally, when a 20-foot iron, steel and concrete canopy fell from the Audubon Building, crashing to the sidewalk of Canal street, the city's main thoroughfare.

The debris, catching a group of pedestrians and Sunday night window shoppers, littered the sidewalk for 100 feet or more. The canopy, on the building 20 years, fell without warning. Several people narrowly missed being struck down.

"It sounded like an awful explosion," said Patrolman George Trahan, stationed at the corner, a few feet away. "It seemed that all the supports gave way at once, falling to the sidewalk in a cloud of dust."

SNELL LAYS UPTURN TO CHECK ON GARNER

G. O. P. Leader Says Trade Responds to Elimination of "Pork" Threat.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, said last night there has been a steady business upturn "since Speaker Garner returned to Texas to try his fantastic schemes on the fish instead of on the Nation."

He spoke in reply to Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, manager of the Garner vice presidential campaign, who said Saturday night "the people of the country want leadership, especially at a time like this," and that Mr. Hoover and those acting with him have failed utterly."

In a statement issued through the Republican national committee, the New Yorker, chairman of the committee which this week will notify President Hoover of his nomination, replied that "fortunately for the country, it has not had the kind of leadership Mr. Rayburn has in mind."

"He refers to Democratic leadership," Mr. Snell said, "which thus far has advanced only two plans for getting the Nation out of the depression—by Presidential Candidate Roosevelt, the planting of 1,000,000,000 trees; by Vice Presidential Candidate Garner, the planting of $1,000,000,000 of tax money in useless postoffices."

"With the adjournment of Congress there has come a restoration of the only additional element necessary for the improvement of the general situation—confidence," he added. "This was made possible because of the removal of the uncertainty existing as long as Speaker Garner was in control of the Democratic House of Representatives in Washington, and was able to threaten the country with huge pork barrel measures, money inflation bills and a Federal Government pawnbroking business through indiscriminating loans of the taxpayers' money to anybody desiring a bit of easy cash.

"This threat removed, the country has been able to go forward under the stimulus of the beneficial program for economic recovery devised by President Hoover and wrung from a Congress recalcitrant under Democratic leadership."

Ury Woodson Predicts Kentucky for Roosevelt

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A "sweeping victory" for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Kentucky was predicted today by Ury Woodson, who for 24 years was Democratic national committeeman from Kentucky and for eight years secretary of the national committee. Woodson is here on private business.

"Reports from many counties, especially those where the extensive coal mining interests are," he said, "indicate that nearly half of the Republican vote will go to the Democratic ticket."

Mississippi Sends Negro To President's Luncheon

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Charlie Isaacs, a Negro delegate to the Republican national convention, said today he had received an invitation to a luncheon at the White House next Thursday.

That is the date on which President Hoover will be formally notified of his nomination by the Republican party. Isaacs, a member of the "Black and Tan" Republican State executive committee, was appointed to represent Mississippi at the ceremonies.

Stimson Will Outline Paris Pact at Dinner

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will outline the Government's policy in preserving peace under the pact of Paris at a dinner here tomorrow of the Council on Foreign Relations, the council announced today.

The council is a nonpartisan organization devoted to the study of international relations. John W. Davis is president.

Piccard Plans to Make New Ascent Tomorrow

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Prof. Auguste Piccard, Belgian physicist, who ascended more than 50,000 feet into the stratosphere last year, said tonight that he expected to be ready Tuesday night to make another balloon ascent. He previously had planned to take off tomorrow.

Guarded from the importunities of the inquisitive by barbed wire, policemen and dogs, Prof. Piccard and Max Cosyn, young electrical engineer, were methodically busy all day with preparations for the scientific flight.

2 Dead as Heat Grips Valley in California

Indio, Calif., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A terrific heat wave, accompanied by extreme humidity, caused at least two deaths and many prostrations over the week-end in the sea level districts of the Coachella Valley.

The dead are Duncan Frazier, subcontractor on a State highway project near Oasis, and Henry Love, 48, Negro. Temperatures near 120 degrees were reported unofficially.

HORMONE DISCOVERY IS ANNOUNCED HERE

that are carried through the body in the blood stream and are necessary to arouse many organs to normal activity. They are produced by all the ductless, endocrine, glands.

The new hormone was obtained from pituitary glands of cattle and sheep, and when injected into guinea pigs and rabbits caused their mammary glands to begin secreting milk, said the Carnegie announcement. The discovery is credited to Dr. Oscar Riddle, Dr. Robert U. Bates and Simon W. Dykshorn, of the Carnegie Institution's department of genetics at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y. They tentatively have named the new hermone "prolactin."

The Carnegie scientists are the first to isolate the new hormone from the growth and sex hormones with which it is mixed in the pituitary gland. Formerly, it was believed one of the two latter hormones was the cause of milk secretion.

A quick and definite test for the presence of the new hormone in any extract is furnished by trying its effect on the crop glands of pigeons. Dr. Riddle and Miss Pela Fay Braucher found that this pigeon gland forms and functions only when influenced by the new hormone.

HULL AGAIN NAMED TO CAMPAIGN POST

Illinoisan to Direct Foreign Language Division of G. O. P. Committee.

Appointment of Representative William E. "Ed" Hull, of Peoria, Ill., as director of the foreign language division for the presidential campaign in the Western area, was announced yesterday by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee.

The post was held by Mr. Hull four years ago when he perfected organizations within the foreign language groups in each of the 28 States of the Western division. Mr. Hull said:

"Virtually every group of the foreign language speaking American citizens is naturaly Republican in its political tendencies. I have no doubt that organiaztion of thees people for effective political action will bring about success for the Republican tickets, national and local.

"These people are among the best of American citizens. They are energetic, loyally patriotic, law-abiding and hard-working citizens. They have built themselves a personal stake in this country and believe that their future happiness and welfare depend upon the sound, sane, safe leadership of President Hoover and the Republican party.

"I believe that the President will receive overwhelming support from this section of the body politic."

Roosevelt's Power In Ouster Absolute

Governor May Conduct His Hearing on Walker Any Way He Wishes.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—When Mayor James J. Walker of New York faces Tammany's persistent foe, Samuel Seabury, before Gov. Roosevelt in Albany on Thursday, the proceedings in the effort to oust the mayor will be wholly in the hands of the governor, who may conduct the hearing any way he desires.

An investigation of the law under which a New York Governor sits on the fitness of a public official shows that he may receive or reject arguments and hear or refuse to hear witnesses. He may on his own initiative call in witnesses whom neither the complainant nor the defendant has sponsored.

The New York constitution is terse in its definition of a governor's removal power. It briefly says he may remove a county offical after a hearing. A special provision of the New York City charter brings the mayor and the commissioner of police under the law.

Gov. Roosevelt tonight finished a week-end at his Dutchess County home, returning to Albany. He motored from Hyde Park to Albany. The governor today had not heard from Mayor Walker.

HEAT HALTS HOOVER LABORS ON ADDRESS

Mercury at 83 Is New High for Rapidan; President Returns Here Today.

Skyland, Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Because of the record-breaking heat wave which invaded the high altitudes of his mountain camp, President Hoover today devoted himself entirely to rest and delayed work on his acceptance speech to be delivered next Thursday night.

Aids at the President's Rapidan camp high in the Virginia Blue Ridge Mountains, said he was giving considerable thought to completion of his address, but that actual work upon it would not be considered until his return to the White House tomorrow.

Despite a temperature of 83 degrees near noon, a new high for the Rapidan camp, Mr. Hoover took a brief stroll over mountain trails before luncheon.

Earlier he read morning newspapers dropped from a Marine airplane which flew over the mountain retreat shortly before 10 o'clock. In the comparative cool offered by the front porch of his own cabin, the President also looked over mail dispatched from the White House by the same airplane.

The Chief Executive intends to rise shortly after dawn tomorrow in order to breakfast and leave the camp by 6 o'clock. He has found that a departure at this hour will place him at his desk in the Executive Mansion by 9:30 a. m.

One of the President's secretaries told newspapermen Mr. Hoover intended to devote much of his time tomorrow to the task of completing his acceptance address. Doubt was expressed, however, that final revision of the proof now before him would be completed before Wednesday. The Chief Executive had opportunity during his stay at the mountain camp to discuss parts of the address with his guests, Hanford MacNider, American Minister to Canada, talked at some length with the President. He was active in consummation of the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty with Canada, and a section devoted to this subject is expected to be in Mr. Hoover's address.

Other guests included E. A. Van Valkenberg, Philadelphia publisher, and Mrs. Van Valkenberg, and Charles Hebbard, Spokane, Wash., industrialist.

2 Houston Mechanics Killed in Plane Crash

Houston, Tex., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Doyle Kennedy and Harry L. Reed, Houston mechanics, were killed by the crash of an airplane today after collapse of a wing as they flew beneath a lightning-lighted cloudbank a mile south of Little York, Tex.

The plane fell 500 feet to earth. Max Jones, of Houston, the owner, who witnessed the accident, said he believed a bolt of lightning ripped off the wing. Other observers expressed the opinion a gust of wind was responsible.

FIVE DOCTORS CITED IN SPLIT FEE CHARGE

Board Asks Revocation of License of Walker's Brother and Others.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Revocation of the licenses of five doctors, including the brother of Mayor Walker, was asked of the State board of regents today by the city affairs committee.

Formal charges were filed with the board's grievance committee against Drs. William H. Walker, Harris Feinberg, Alfred Cassasaa, Edward L. Brennan and Thomas J. O'Mara, alleging that they split fees and padded medical bills paid by the city.

One of the "specifications" against Mayor Walker in the removal case now pending before Gov. Roosevelt is that the mayor "neglected his official duty in permitting his corporation counsel to designate, in city compensation cases, doctors who split their fees with the mayor's brother."

In answering this charge, Walker stated the matter was a "detail of administration imposed by law upon the corporation counsel," that there was no assertion of knowledge on the part of the corporation counsel or himself of an improper act, and that the whole charge was added "for the purpose of arousing prejudice."

The charges brought by the city affairs committee today were based on the evidence produced by Samuel Seabury in the Hofstadter committee inquiry. Not only did the city affairs committee seek revocation of the licenses, but they also asked the State attorney general to appoint a special deputy to prosecute the case and investigate further.

The charges assert the four associates of Dr. Walker had secured a virtual monopoly on the compensation business of the city and in a period of four years had received $216,001 in fees, half of which went to Dr. Walker, "who rendered no services in return therefor."

The committee argued the money was paid in return for political influence in obtaining the appointments and that the fees were also excessive.

U. S. Stockholders Fight Kreuger & Toll Parley

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Samuel Untermeyer, representing an independent group of Kreuger & Toll security holders, protested today a proposed conference at Stockholm to discuss reorganization of the Kreuger industries on the ground that it was premature.

"In our judgment," he cabled the liquidators at Stockholm, "any such meeting and any reorganization plan promulgated now before detailed accountants' and appraisers' reports have been received, studied and checked by our accountants would be premature, unfortunate and prejudicial to the eventual success of any reorganization."

Tour of Northwest Completed by Hyde

Meets Committee Working Out Plans for Credit Corporation.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, today completed a five-day trip through Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, incidental to his task of collecting seed loans and emergency feed loans this fall. He left tonight for Kansas City and returns to Washington Thursday.

While in Minnesapolis, Secretary Hyde met with members of the Northwest committee working out plans for the proposed credit corporation to be set up by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The corporation probably will handle certain types of loans heretofore arranged by the Department of Agriculture.

The committee will go to Washington for a conference with officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation next Friday.

POLICE SEEK FIEND, SLAYER OF GIRL, 14

Disfigured Body of Victim Is Found Wrapped in Sacks on Street Corner.

San Francisco, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Police tonight started a city-wide search for the slayer of 14-year-old Dina Sideres, black-haired daughter of a widow, whose body, wrapped in burlap sacks, was found on a street corner. The girl had been choked and beaten about the head.

The motive and the location of the killing were as puzzling as the identity of the killer. No passion but that of a ferocious hatred figured in the crime, police believed.

Police were working on a theory that former lodgers at the Sideres house, or some enemy of Mrs. Lola Sideres, the child's mother, might have killed Dina. They had the names of no definite suspects, but intended to question several men whom they had not yet located.

Dina disappeared Friday night. Her mother saw her ride off on a bicycle. She next saw her child today, when she identified the disfigured body at the morgue and collapsed.

The body was found by Miss Eve Schafer, who saw a foot sticking from a blood-stained sack. One sack had been placed over the girl's head and tied at the neck. Another was over the lower part of the body. Apparently the corpse had been thrown from a speeding automobile. The skull was crushed and both eyes were discolored. The body was fully clothed.

The girl apparently had been abducted and kept for 24 hours or more before being killed. Medical inspectors, after computing the time they believed she had been dead, said she was murdered near midnight last night.

Presidential Warrant Gets Robber in Germany

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Ernest Levy, 38, convicted in a $200,000 jewel robbery a year ago, was in jail here tonight as a result of a presidential warrant—the first issued for an American in Germany since the World War.

Levy, sentenced from one to ten years with two others, fled the country while awaiting a new trial. He was under $10,000 bond. The trio was convicted of robbing the Lawrence F. Sterne home in Glencoe, Ill. All of the loot but an $85,000 diamond necklace was recovered. Levy was found at the home of his father in Sulz, a suburb of Cologne, Germany.

Beauty's Clothes Stolen As She Wins in Contest

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—People didn't have to go to Lakewood Park last night to see how and why Mary Crowder, 17-year-old nurse, won the title of "Miss Georgia" in a bathing beauty contest.

While Miss Crowder paraded before the judges, someone entered the dressing room and took away all of her clothes. She was forced to return home to Marietta, 22 miles away, in her bathing suit. She won over a field of 62.

CHAPIN WILL TAKE OVER DUTIES TODAY

Expected to Attend His First Meeting of Cabinet Tomorrow.

(Associated Press.)

Stepping into a key position in the economic life of the Nation as the new Secretary of Commerce, Roy D. Chapin, Detroit automobile manufacturer, today will add his experience in business and finance to the administration's reconstruction efforts.

Chapin will be sworn in at 9:30 a. m., succeeding Robert P. Lamont, of Chicago, who resigned to accept the presidency of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

President Hoover has drawn freely upon the advice and assistance of Lamont in his efforts to bring industry and commerce back to normal, and Chapin is expected to hold as important a place in the councils of the Chief Executive.

He probably will succeed Lamont in the series of conferences being held between administration officials and presidents of large railroads. Another probable assignment will be to work with Secretary Doak in determining the practicability of spreading employment in industry by means of shortening hours of work.

As he begins his new duties within the big bronze doors of the new $17,000,000 Commerce Department Building, Chapin will take over the direction of an army of 16,000 employes, half of them here and the others scattered over all parts of the world.

After taking the oath and posing for photographers, Chapin expects to hold his first press conference as Secretary. Tomorrow he probably will attend his first Cabinet meeting.

The Detroiter will be the third Secretary of the department since President Hoover himself resigned from the post in August, 1928, after being nominated for the Presidency.

William F. Whiting, who succeeded Mr. Hoover, held the post until the new administration went into office March 4, 1929, and was succeeded by Lamont, who came to the department from 26 years of leadership in the iron and steel industry.

Italy to Readjust Her Battle Fleet

Obsolete Vessels to Give Way to Speedy Craft of Medium, Light Tonnage.

Rome, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The Italian battle fleet will be completely reorganized after the present naval maneuvers, it was learned tonight from well informed sources.

Only the most modern and the speediest naval units will be kept in a state of full efficiency after August 25, Italian dreadnaughts and the naval vessels which formerly belonged to Germany will be placed in reserve.

The reorganization will be chiefly of a technical character, but it will definitely imply that Italy does not intend to waste money on obsolete vessels.

Italy has firmly adhered to a policy that her requirements are in ships of medium and light tonnage and in these categories she has obtained brilliant results, especially in speed. Her light cruiser, Nicolaso da Recco, set a world record for warships with a speed of 42 knots for six consecutive hours. In this class, other light cruisers have speeds of from 33 to 37 knots.

Kentucky Postmaster Is Found Slain on Road

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—J. Bert Searcy, 47, postmaster here for ten years, was found slain on a road near here late today. His throat had been slashed and he had been stabbed twice in the stomach. The condition of the body indicated it had been thrown from a moving automobile.

Clay Brown, 55, a former resident of this section, who recently returned from Oklahoma City, where he had been working in the oil fields, voluntarily surrendered. He said he knew nothing of the killing, but had been with Searcy earlier in the afternoon.

Hundreds Watch Suicide Go Over Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, Ontario, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—In view of hundreds of tourists, James Reuben, 60, of Hamilton, Ontario, committed suicide here last night.

Reuben walked outside the guard rail above Horseshoe Falls, waded into the swift current and was carried over the crest. Frank Stewart, of Toronto, made a heroic effort to save the man, but could not reach him in time.

Slain Woman's Neighbor's Fingerprints Are Located

Richard Dana, Nephew of New York Writer, Under Arrest as Romances Are Bared in Killing of Former Southern Belle.

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Bloody fingerprints found in the rooms of Glenn Burrne Manson, in which Miss Jane Merrill, 72-year-old recluse, was murdered, were tentatively identified tonight as those of Richard Dana, a neighbor and nephew of Charles Dana, well known New York writer.

Identification of the marks was made by J. F. Chancellor, Jackson, Miss., fingerprint expert.

The murder was cloaked in the same secrecy that concealed the life of "Miss Jennie," as she lived alone for 40 years in the old family mansion, adjoining the estate of Duncan G. Minor, who was her sweetheart in the days when she was the "belle of the South."

Just as strange was the case of Dana, "the wild man," who lived for long periods in the woods, and Miss Octavia Dockrey, "the goat woman," still held in jail in connection with the murder. Both were once favorites in the same ranking Southern society, and they followed Miss Merrill and Minor into seclusion, living together, unmarried, though they had long been sweethearts, on a majestic plantation adjoining that of Miss Merrill.

Miss Jennie was the daughter of Ayers Merrill, once the Ambassador to Belgium. President Grant often visited the mansion, Glenn Burnne, as her father's guest when she was a child. She had been presented to the Court of St. James in London and to the Belgian court. She was pretty, once, small and dark, "with the face of an angel and the temper of a devil."

But 40 years ago she went into seclusion. She continued to dress in the styles of the eighties, and made her periodic visits to town in horse-drawn buggy.

She was murdered Thursday night, shot three times, dragged 200 feet from the house and her body left lying in a clump of bushes. Minor, who followed her into seclusion, dropping society while he was a popular, dashing youth, discovered the crime. A Negro on the plantation told him of shots and screams at Miss Jennie's house. Minor called police and the body was found at dawn.

Questioned, Minor shed little light on the crime or the life of the slain woman. He protested neighborhood gossip that he had been secretly married to Miss Jennie for the past 20 years, but refused to talk of the old romance.

Police today sought a "mysterious white man" whom two Negroes saw running from the plantation Thursday night. They were also engaged in dragging a small pond on the Merrill estate, looking for the gun used in the slaying. They had gained many theories, but few clues after questioning the fourteen suspects, most of whom were Negroes, trailed by bloodhounds.

Great Ossuary at Verdun Is Inaugurated by Lebrun

Necropolis Holds Bones of 320,000 French Slain at Fort Douaumont; President Calls Monument Testimony to "Human Folly;" Deplores War.

Verdun, France, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The great Ossuary of Douaumont, a necropolis holding the boges of some 320,000 French war dead, was inaugurated by President Albert Lebrun today as "testimony to a great human folly."

"Never in any time did any country on earth drink so much blood," the president, speaking in the presence of Marshal Petain and Marshal Franchet D'Esperey, said in reference to the war dead.

"Truthfully this is the cemetery of France. This monument will remain as testimony to a great human folly. Any one coming here and going to Thiepval, where I inaugurated with the Prince of Wales the memorial to 75,000 British officers and men, will be certain to feel all the horror which war should inspire."

As the president approached the great stone ossuary, the 5-ton bell in the tower, a gift of American people to Verdun, rang out in stirring tone. Smaller bells sounded the Angelus over the fields where, in four years of fighting, a million men, including 600,000 Germans, laid down their lives.

American friends contributed the 150-foot tower with four great stone crosses on its sides, erected at a cost of 3,000,000 francs (about $120,000). Atop the tower are four large searchlights, with changing red and white lights, to turn throughout the night, casting their beams over the thousands of white crosses, the famous "bayonet trench," the ruins of Fort Douaumont and Fort Vaux, and the "Valley of Death" down which the German army charged into a maze of blinding gunfire.

The tower lights are the gift of the minister of air, in the name of French pilots, to the village of Douaumont.

Inside the memorial are 46 large black marble tombs, each containing the bones gathered from the 46 sectors of the Verdun battlefields. There are two other crypts of 350 cubic meters each, filled with bones from the battlefield.

The cloistered city of the dead under the tower is 400 feet long. In another wing is a chapel in which visiting priests each day say a holy sacrifice mass in memory of the dead. The organ in the chapel is a gift from the French royal family, which is in exile in Belgium.

The Princess of Polignac, whose husband fell in Champagne; Mgr. Ginisty, Bishop of Verdun, and Gen. Valatin led the work in building the memorial.

FRENCH CITY BLAST IS LAID TO BRETONS

Autonomists Said to Have Objected to Fete About Their Subjection.

Rennes, France, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A small, stubborn group of Breton autonomists, clinging to their native language and customs like the Sinn Feiners of Ireland, were generally blamed today for an explosion which destroyed a great bas-relief here symbolizing the union of Brittany with France in 1532.

The explosion, preceding a celebration of the fourth centenary of the union at Vannes, in which Premier Herriot participated, disfigured one of the most picturesque central squares in the French provinces.

Two alleged sympathizers of the separatists were grilled by the police. The perpetrators of the blast were likely to risk the death penalty, since the city hall, in a niche of which the monument stood, was inhabited.

The municipal treasurer and the janitor were sleeping in their apartment in the city hall at the time of the explosion, but no persons were injured.

The blast, which was heard 3 miles around, shattered windows within a radius of 500 yards. The destruction seemed to have been wrought by a bomb placed with the utmost secrecy, since the police headquarters is just across the way and several patrolmen were lodged nearby.

The autonomists for a long time have been discontented with the fetes scheduled for the fourth centenary, which the late President Doumer was to have attended and which Premier Herriot inaugurated today at Vannes.

Their attitude was that the Bretons should not invite French officials to celebrate the duchy's surrender of its sovereignty. Many decided to boycott the ceremonies.

A similar boycotting marked the inauguration of the destroyed monument itself in 1911. Local patriots objected to its depiction of Anne of Brittany, successively the wife of King Charles VIII and Louis XII, kneeling and offering her crown to France.

Rennes, old capital of Brittany, is known to artists throughout the world as the "Venice of France" because of its canals.

POLITICAL VIOLENCE CONTINUES IN REICH

Hitler Foe Slain as Special Investigator Arrives at Koenigsberg.

Berlin, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Violence continued overnight in Germany's political animosities.

Special Commissioner Diels, upon his arrival aat Koenigsberg to investigate the situation there, found that Kurt Kotzan, Reichsbanner leader at Loetzen, had been shot dead in a street after an altercation with a group of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists while on the way home from his office.

The windows of six Berlin branches of the Scherl Co., publishers of the Lokal Anzeiger and other Nationalist newspapers, were smashed by rocks wrapped in copies of the Communist paper, Rote Fahne.

At Ratibor a window in the plant of the Centrist paper Oberschlesische Rundschau was shattered by the explosion of a hand grenade. A bomb exploded in shrubbery facing the main railroad station at Altona, but caused no damage.

Koenigsberg was en fete for the annual meeting of the Federal of German Marine Societies, under the presidency of Vice Admiral Roesing.

The admiral, in a speech at the City Hall, said the meeting was purposely held in Koenighberg to call attention to "foreign menace" to East Prussia. Stressing the need of a stronger navy, he said what he termed the fight for Danzig and Memel was only a phase of a general offensive against East Prussia.

(Danzig was made a free state under the protection of the League of Nations by the Versailles treaty after the war. The Memel territory was detached from Germany and eventually handed over to Lithuania, subject to certain conditions intended to regulate the use of the port by both Lithuania and Poland. Danzig is a unit in the Polish customs administration.)

DOUBLE PERIL FACES CHINESE THIS WEEK

Threat of Japanese Invasion and Split Among Leaders Create Crisis.

Peiping, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The Chinese Republic was torn by internal controversy and threatened with another military invasion tonight as it faced the most critical week since the Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

The increasing indications that Japan plans further military activity in the province of Jehol, possibly involving the vital parts of northern China, were rivaled in seriousness by the political battle which has again split the Chinese leaders into two bitterly hostile camps and relieved the powerful Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang of some of his power in north China.

Resignation of Wang.

All claims of China to internal unity—carried to a peak when the Nineteenth Route Army fought for the nation at Shanghai—were shattered by the internal crisis which began yesterday when Wang Ching-Wei, powerful leader, whose position was similar to that of premier, resigned and sent a telegram urging Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang also to resign.

Wang's action was considered not only an attack on Marshal Chang, ousted by the Japanese as ruler of Manchuria, but also on Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, the most powerful individual in China, who has cooperated with Marshal Chang while the former Manchurian war lord has been in control of the Peiping area.

Wang bitterly attacked the financial drain which Marshal Chang caused on the national regime and charged that the Manchurian was not sincere in opposing Japan.

Chang Told to Resign.

Today the political and military leaders of north China met and, after long discussion, decided that Marshal Chang should hand over his political control of a political council. They also decided that he should surrender his financial control to a finance commission. Thereafter, it was decided, Marshal Chang will answer the demands of Wang, and refute Wang's charges.

Nanking (Monday), Aug. 8 (U.P.). Chang Hsueh-Liang, ousted as war lord of Manchuria when the "independent state" was formed under Japanese guidance last year, today telegraphically resigned his position as a member of the Chinese government.

Lo Wen-Kan, Ku Meng-Yu and Chen Kun-Poh, who also held high office on the central executive committee, tendered their resignations at the same time.

Two Women May Begin Endurance Flight Today

Curstiss Field, Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Two women out to break the world refueling endurance record tested their plane this afternoon and then announced a few details still to be worked out may delay their take-off until Tuesday.

The fliers, Louise McPhetridge Thaden and Frances Harrell Marsalis, are scheduled to begin their attempt in the morning. They may start tomorrow afternoon, their manager said, if the difficult refueling process is perfected and the broadcasting arrangements are completed in time.

Senator Belcourt, Noted Canadian Educator, Dies

Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Senator N. A. Belcourt, 71, of Ottawa, died today at his summer home at Blue Sea Lake, Quebec. He had been in poor health for a year.

He was counsel in the fight of the French Canadian Educational Association of Ontario against a resolution which limited the time French could be taught in the bilingual schools of the province. He was minister plenipotentiary for Canada at the interallied conference and later at the international conference in London in 1924. He was an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Aviatrix to Resume Stand.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Reappearance on the witness stand tomorrow of Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, who told a circuit court jury last week of her strange love affairs with the two men, will mark resumption of the trial of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, charged with slaying Haden Clarke.

KHAKI SHIRTS HEAD RETURNS TO CAPITAL

Ellison Is Back From Johnstown; B. E. F. Leaders Named as Officers.

Bonus army headquarters at 1841 North Capitol street yesterday became national headquarters for the Khaki Shirts, outgrowth of the B. E. F.'s trek to Washington. R. B. Ellison, of Los Angeles, named by Bonus Chieftain Walter W. Waters, as national organizer of the Khaki Shirts, took charge of headquarters yesterday on his return from Johnstown, Pa., where he engaged in organization work among the evacuating veterans.

Veterans attached to B. E. F. headquarters, except for seven staff members, were instructed by Waters to return to their respective units in the organization of State camps of the bonus marchers. All unit commanders of the B. E. F. throughout the Nation will assist the Khaki Shirt movement, Waters said.

The staff members left here were appointed to posts in the Khaki Shirts, as follows: Eugene F. Everett, treasurer; John T. Ballow, assistant treasurer; George D. Brady, registration officer, and M. Walton, Leo Lewandowsky, V. C. Everett and Colvin Ford, aids.

Waters will leave tomorrow for New York to arrange details of a speaking tour he plans. He said he is "going to tell the true story of the Battle of Anacostia to the people."

Chicago B. E. F. Camp Routes Retreating Army

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Bonus army headquarters at an abandoned old mansion near the Gold Coast took on the appearance of a transient hotel today as stragglers arrived from the East, and other veterans, provided with free transportation, headed westward for their homes.

About 100 men arrived, remnants of the veteran army evacuated from Washington after unsuccessful attempts to force Congress to pay the soldier bonus. More than 200 left last night and today aboard trains for Western cities.

75 B. E. F. Members Arrive at Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Ragged, tired and admittedly disappointed with their experiences in Washington, 75 members of the bonus expeditionary force passed through here today en route to their homes in the Dakotas, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

While in Minneapolis, the B. E. F. members were guests of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who provided them with supper.

Tom Mooney's Mother To Talk on Bonus Ouster

Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84-year-old mother of Tom Mooney, imprisoned labor leader, will speak tonight at a "bonus marchers'" protest meeting in Pythian Hall, Twelfth and U streets northwest.

Mrs. Mooney recently completed a 3,000-mile tour on behalf of her son's freedom. William Powell, Communist organizer, also will be on the speakers' platform.

Determination of Sex Before Birth Advances

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The science of genetics has advanced to the point where the sex of certain species of moths can be determined prior to birth, Dr. Richard Goldschmidt, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, said today on his arrival from Berlin.

He admitted that the sex of humans might be predetermined at some future time; but refused to dilate on the subject. He brought several hundred specimens of moths for exhibition at the international congress of genetics at Ithaca, N. Y., beginning August 24.

New York Resort Fire Causes $50,000 Loss

New York, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—New York's second summer resort fire ended today with $50,000 damage and nobody hurt. The roller-coaster, scenic railway and other concessions at Starlight Park were ruined, but a crowd of 50,000 enjoyed the spectacle.

Five alarms were sent in and for a time it appeared the fire might rival Coney Island's disastrous fire of two weeks ago, but a lack of wind and the general humidity held the blaze within bounds.

Sleeping Drug Found In Autopsy on Woman

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The Tribune said Dr. Clarence Muhlberger, coroner's physician, tomorrow will report at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Vera Spafford O'Brien that he found a sufficient dose of a sleeping drug in her stomach to cause death.

Her husband, Dr. William A. O'Brien, radiologist, is held by police pending the inquest. A handwriting expert asserted that a supposed suicide note left by Mrs. O'Brien's body was not written by her. The newspaper said investigators, however, are not certain the drug caused her death last Monday, pointing to burns about her mouth they said could not have been caused by the sleeping drug.

SITUATION OF CUBA CALLED "HOPELESS"

Resigned Envoy to Mexico Holds Ferrara's Promotion Back Step.

Mexico City, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Don Marques Sterling, one of the most influential political leaders of Cuba, revealed today that he had resigned as Ambassador to Mexico "because of the hopelessness of the Cuban situation." Sterling declared that the appointment of Dr. Orestes Ferrara, former Cuban Ambassador to Washington, as the secretary of state had blasted his last hopes for an early change for the better in Cuba.

His resignation, Sterling said, ended a year's negotiation on his part between the opposition forces in Cuba and President Gerardo Machado in an effort to settle political unrest at Havana. Although President Machado had agreed in principle to all the important points necessary to alleviate the situation, according to Sterling, the negotiations had in the end accomplished nothing tangible. Sterling revealed that his last resignation was the fourth he had submitted since January, 1931. Each of the previous ones had been withdrawn in hope of finally effecting an agreement.

"President Machado," Sterling charged, "rejected all practical forms of dealing with the present political difficulties, and consequently Cuba is now in a hopeless situation. Moreover, I disagree with the official actions of Dr. Ferrara since he became secretary of state."

Mexico City, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Police held Jao Machbin, a native of Curityba, Brazil, who until recently was research assistant at Northwestern University, Chicago, in Belen Prison today for further investigation of charges of complicity in the disappearance of certain documents from the national archieves. Machbin, whose wife was formerly Elizabeth Lurie, of Houston, Tex., had been attending summer school here and is to join the faculty of the New Mexico University next fall.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The State of Vera Cruz, which greatly curtailed religious worship a year ago by limiting the number of Catholic priests to one for every 100,000 population, is now overrun with spiritualists. A survey of the state revealed today that spiritualist parlors exist in considerable number in every large city, and that each parlor is being attended daily by a large number of believers in the cult. Some of the larger spiritualist centers have as many as eight mediums ready to place the believer in communication with the other world.

Aviatrix and Passenger Hurt as Planes Hit in Air

Kansas City, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Mildred Kauffman, 25-year-old Kansas City aviatrix, suffered a broken neck and Russell Shaw, her passenger, received a severe head injury when Miss Kauffman's plane locked wings with another at an altitude of 75 feet above Fairfax Airport here tonight.

The other plane was piloted by Don Moss. Both were flying at high speed and crashed to the ground together. Moss, uninjured, extricated his passenger, Jack Leftwich, 12 years old, who suffered only a small cut on the forehead.

Ruth Nichols Preparing Plane for Mystery Hop

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The airplane belonging to Miss Ruth Nichols, holder of the national altitude record for women, is being prepared for a flight to an undisclosed destination, officials at the Jersey City airport announced tonight.

Reports that Miss Nichols was planning a transatlantic flight were denied. She cracked up at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, last summer on a previous attempt to fly the ocean.

Kentucky Will Count Primary Ballots Today

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Kentucky's ballot boxes, under guard at county courthouses, today held the answer to U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley's plea for a chance to be the first Kentuckian in 30 years to serve longer than a six-year term in the Senate.

Counting of ballots will start tomorrow.

W. TOPHAM, NATIVE OF CAPITAL, IS DEAD

Former Publisher and Active Fraternal Leader Passes at Age of 76.

Washington Topham, 76, a native of Washington, well known for his work in suffrage and civic activities, died at 3:45 p. m. yesterday at his home, 43 U street northwest, after a long illness.

In the latter part of the last century, Mr. Topham was well known in Washington as a newspaper publisher. He was publisher of the Schedule, the Youth Advocate and Our Progress. In recognition of his publishing activities, he was made a member of the Fossils, a famous amateur publishing organization of the past century.

Relinquishing interest in the publishing field, Mr. Topham entered the trunk and leather business with his father, the late James S. Topham. He retired from the business in 1920.

Born on George Washington's natal day, and the year of the unveiling of the statue of George Washington in Washington Circle, Mr. Topham was given the name of the Father of His Country.

Vice president of the Columbia Historical Society, he was secretary-treasurer of the permanent committee on marking of historic sites in the District. He was also a member of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, joining the association on February 26, 1910; Washington Centennial Lodge, No. 14, F. A. A. M., North Capitol Citizens Association and the Society of Natives. He was a former member of the Sons of the Revolution.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie C. Topham; a son, James Scott Topham, of Los Angeles, and two sisters, Mrs. Lila T. Oldfield, of this city, and Mrs. Ida T. Bernheim, of Charleston, W. Va.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Rhode Island M. P. Church, followed by interment in Glenwood Cemetery.

MRS. LILLIAN SACKETT DIES

Was Lutheran Sunday School Teacher Here For Ten Years.

Mrs. Lillian C. Sackett, of 9 New York avenue northwest, died at her residence early yesterday after an illness of eight months.

Mrs. Sackett was born in New York 57 years ago and was a resident of this city for the last 30 years. For 10 years she taught Sunday school at the Keller Memorial Lutheran Church.

She is survived by a son, Edwin J. Sackett; a daughter, Mrs. Ann Petty; her mother, Mrs. Mary Beaver, all of this city, and a sister, Mrs. W. Wick, of Nyack, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., at the Keller Memorial Lutheran Church, followed by interment in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

RITES FOR MRS. C. M. REMEY

Services to Be Conducted Today in Chapel at Home of Deceased.

Funeral services will be held today at 11 o'clock for Mrs. Charles Mason Remey, wife of a prominent Washington architect, who shot and killed herself in their home, 2440 Massachusetts avenue northwest, early Friday.

The services will be conducted in the chapel of the Remey home. A choral service will be rendered by the Washington Cathedral Choir. The Rev. Dr. Yarnold, of the Church of the Epiphany, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Goodman, of St. Thomas' Church, will officiate.

Salvage Tug Ready For Treasure Hunt

Two Trawlers Will Assist in an Effort to Locate Long-Lost Merida.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Provisioned and repaired, the salvage tug Salvor will put to sea tomorrow morning with the trawlers Sea Gull and Sea Rambler for what the crews of the treasure-hunting ship believe will be a successful attack on Davey Jones' locker. The Salvor was scheduled to sail today, but rudder repairs caused the delay of a day.

The three vessels represent the fifth attempt to locate the steamer Merida, which, with between $4,000,000 and $6,000,000 in silver, gold, and jewels in her strong boxes sank in 35 fathoms of water off Winter Quarter after a collision with the American steamer Admiral Farragut 21 years ago.

Last week the ships located fragments of a broken vessel at or near the spot where the Merida went down. This week it is believed that definite proof as to whether the pieces are those of the Merida will be obtained. The Salvor, when she leaves tomorrow will be provisioned for three weeks at sea.

MacDonald Denies Irish Trade Rumor

Visit to Ulster for Complete Rest, Not to Settle Dispute, He Says.

London, (Monday) Aug. 8 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has assured the London Daily Mail's correspondent at Newtownards, Northern Ireland, that there was "absolutely no vestige of truth in the suggestion" that his visit to Ulster was due to pressure at Ottawa for a settlement of the British dispute with the Irish Free State.

He described the suggestion, which appeared in rumors in Irish newspapers, as a "sheer invention." He added he was only seeking a complete rest "away from telephoone inquiries and work of every sort."

"I am not concerning myself with Irish affairs, north or south, at the moment," Mr. MacDonald said. "I am going to Lossiemouth (Scotland) on Tuesday or Wednesday."

The correspondent said the prime minister was in the best of health and was enjoying his visit at Mount Stewaart, home of Lord Londonderry, secretary for air in the British cabinet, with whom he flew to Belfast last Friday. The house was guarded by nonuniformed police.

Marie Visits Ileana.

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Queen Marie of Jugoslavia arrived today at Moedling, near Vienna, where her sister, Princess Ileana, is expecting the birth of a baby. Queen Marie took an apartment near the villa of her sister. Princess Ileana of Roumania was married in July, 1931, to Archduke Antoine of Austria.

French Wine Advocates Rap Giving Navy Only Lemonade

Paris, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The ministry of marine, by putting naval canteens on the lemonade wagon, has raised a storm of protests from the deputies representing wine-growing districts.

A resolution painting a pathetic picture of the young gobs "torn from their homes and subjected to a regime of lemonade" was presented to the chamber by these deputies, and passed on the last day of the session without discussion.

It invited the minister of marine to "put an end to the maneuvers apparent in his department to introduce prohibition, and to permit and encourage the normal consumption of the hygienic beverages," by which is meant wine, beer and cider.

The deputies are particularly indignant at the action of the ministry in view of the fact that the government is making strenuous efforts to increase the consumption of wine in France.

Moreover, the resolution goes on to quote eminent dietitians in an effort to prove that wine, taken in moderation, rejoices the heart, stimulates the digestion and increases the muscular powers of man.

The resolution concludes, "In view of the severe crisis which threatens the very life of the country, it is inadmissible, above all at a time when Finland has just condemned the dry regime and opinion in the United States severely judges that regime, that disguised maneuvers in favor of prohibition should appear in the French administration."

BUYING WAVE DIGS INTO HOARDED CASH

Many Favorable Business Developments Reported Throughout Nation.

(Associated Press.)

Buying of securities is definitely putting an end to a great deal of hoarding which has been a handicap to credit, according to George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co.

"If confidence can be maintained," he said yesterday, "it certainly will have a reflex action on business."

Other favorable business developments over the Nation include:

Cleveland—The magazine Steel in its weekly review finds "more phenomena" for a turn in the steel industry market such as inquiry from consumers long dormant, rechecking of the season's requirements for iron ore, requests for longer price protections, firmer prices on scrap and drying up of supply.

New York—The Times says a syndicate of big cotton mill interests is being formed with powerful banking support to purchase the 3,000,000 bales of cotton held either directly or indirectly by the Federal Farm Board.

Washington — Preparation speeded up to place in operation the Nation-wide banking system of the Home Loan Bank Board, which is expected by its sponsors to ease the mortgage burden of home owners.

Chicago—Heavier buying on the various wholesale markets by country retailers due to the belief that bargain levels will shortly give way to higher prices was noted during the last week by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Washington—Anthracite production for the week ended July 30 was reported as 1,048,000 tons compared with 706,000 tons the previous week, the sharpest jump of the year.

Chicago—Checks for more than $2,000,000 representing part of the overdue salaries of Chicago school teachers were placed in the mails.

Steel Mills Excuse Revival Slowness

Long Pull and Adjustments Necessary, Industrial Magazine Says.

Cleveland, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Failure of operations to expand as rapidly as sentiment is no dampener to the steel industry, which views the long pull and minor adjustments in production as peculiar to midsummer, said Steel today.

The magazine, in its weekly trade review, found more phenomena of a turn in the market, such as inquiry from consumers long dormant, rechecking of the season's requirements for iron ore, requests for longer price protections, firmer prices on scrap and a drying up of the supply, and more irregularities in price for specific business are evident in iron and steel.

Actually, from a production standpoint, the situation is little changed. Due to temporary closing of a steel corporation plant at Chicago, the steel rate in the week, ended August 6, fell two points to 14-15 per cent. For a month, Cleveland has been steady at 18 per cent, Birmingham, 21; Buffalo, 11 and 19 on alternate weeks; Eastern Pennsylvania, 13; Youngstown, 15 to 17. Pittsburgh, rising from 12 per cent to 16, has about offset Chicago easing from 18 to 10.

Father to Be Held as Kidnaper.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Police Lieut. Harry Wilson, of suburban Oak Park, tonight said immediate steps would be taken to seek extradition of Fred J. Read, former Chicago investment banker, from Hot Springs, Ark., where he was arrested and, police said, confessed kidnaping his daughter, Carol, 9.

Chewed-Off Match Ends Solve Murder Mystery

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.). Chewed-off match ends today served State troopers as a clew and led to the arrest of Elmer Rabideau, 19, as the slayer of Samuel Bradley, 70-year-old retired farmer of Cannon's Corners, 20 miles from here.

The match ends were found beside the victim's body. Evidently some one had been chewing matches nervously while looking for Bradley's valuables after shooting him through the head.

The troopers took young Rabideau, a neighbor, into custody. They denied him cigarettes, but didn't take his matches from him. He produced one after another and chewed away the ends. When they produced similar ones they found beside Bradley's body, the troopers said, Rabideau confessed.

SOVIET YOUTH GETS RIGHT TO PLEASURE

Long Ban on Love, Kisses, Gay Music, Dancing and Neckties Removed.

Moscow, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Soviet Russia today has, at last, received official permission to have a good time—an epochal development in the realm of romance and entertainment which probably will mean a profound change in the temper of the Communist state.

The significance of the decision to broaden the official Soviet outlook on pleasures is that the "verboten" signs have been removed from such things as love, kisses, neckties, gay music, dancing, gramaphones, and so on, which previously had been held in disrepute.

The beginning of this change was signaled at the conference of the Communist youth organization, but now it is being underlined by the official press and in weighty pronouncements from the Kremlin, where Joseph V. Stalin sits in his plain, workman's blouse and heavy boots.

Emphasized in Press.

The dawn of the new era—the day of the necktie and the lipstick—actually was hailed by Alexander Kosariov, the "Stalin of Communist Youth," when he appeared before the conference wearing a "bourgeois" collar and tie.

But even such a significant thing received comparatively small attention in the Soviet Union until it was later emphasized in the official press.

"We are not against music," said Kosariov, in bearing out the promise of his tie by declaring that Soviet youth has a right to beauty and relaxation.

Contrast With Past.

"We are not against love, not against flowers, not against fashionable clothes. We are not against a hat, nor against a necktie. We are not ascetics and we do not preach asceticism. We are for a full and many-sided life, rich in experiences."

This declaration was in sharp contrast with bolshevik practice in the past, when the leaders of communism have made much of simple life and the costumes of the workers. After the moral laxness of the first revolutionary period, which was short-lived, a sort of "Communist puritanism" set in and the theater, films, literature and every-day life of Russians became monotonously serious. Such things as romance and dancing were, in official eyes, taboo. The emphasis was on industrial development, the five-year plan.

Ten per cent of this year's graduates of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C., had grandfathers who attended the institution.

U. S. FIRMS BUYING BRITISH PLANT SITES

Rush On to Get Inside of Tariff Walls; Stock Rise Cheers England.

London, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The British public today whole-heartedly welcomed the week-end improvement in the stock exchange and watched with mounting enthusiasm another American business development—the rush of manufacturers to get inside the British tariff walls.

The United States manufacturing companies completed arrangements to establish factories in the Manchester area and many others are seeking factory sites in England. At least twenty American firms making well-known products have erected plants near Manchester in the last few years.

The American Soap Manufacturing Co., Procter & Gamble of Cincinnati, is about to enter the British market on a large scale in cooperation with the English firm of Thomas Hedley & Co., Ltd. The Manchester business leaders see this move as one of the most important industrial developments in recent years. The new factory will be a model concern, putting out several million packages of soap a year.

Another American company, E. F. Houghton & Co., of Philadelphia, manufacturers of oils and leathers, is constructing a factory at Trafford Park, Manchester, to be operated by the Houghton Co. of England, in which the Philadelphia concern will own a controlling interest.

Officials of Trafford Park, an industrial estate of the Manchester district, are making strbng bids to American manufacturers to get them to establish new plants there, thus escaping the high British tariffs imposed since last winter.

These developments have been made of greater interest to Britain in the last few days because of the improvement in Wall street, which many see as a possible indication of the "beginning of the end" of economic depression. Business leaders, however, are "keeping their fingers crossed" to avoid disillusionment if such forecasts are wrong.

$50,000 Violin Reported Stolen.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Nadelhoffer reported to police today burglars entered her home, taking, among other things, a Stradivarius violin, valued at $50,000. She said the violin, purchased fifteen years ago at Cremona, Italy, was a gift from wealthy relatives.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

WHOLE GRAIN WHEAT.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Wouldn't you like to serve your family something a little out of the ordinary, especially if it's inexpensive, nutritious and very palatable? Try some of the whole wheat recipes recently developed by the bureau. You can get a dozen or more good recipes for whole wheat dishes by writing to the bureau, and meantime here are two to experiment with:

The whole wheat is first boiled, steamed, cooked in a pressure cooker or in a fireless cooker. The use of hard or soft wheat makes a difference in the consistency of the cooked grains and in the time necessary to make them tender.

Whole grain wheat is an economical source of energy and a good source of vitamin B. It contains a moderate amount of protein, which must be supplemented by proteins from milk, meat or eggs. There is a fair supply of phosphorus, iron and other minerals, but these, too, need supplementing with minerals from other foods.

Beef and Whole Wheat.

2 tablespoons fat
4 tablespoons chopped onion.
1 pound of beef, diced
Flour
3 cups water
¼ of a chili pepper
Salt
2 cups of cooked whole wheat

Melt the fat and cook the onion a few minutes, then add the meat which has been lightly rolled in flour. When the meat has browned somewhat add the water. Partly cover and simmer until the meat is tender. Stir in the chili pepper and the wheat, and add salt to taste.

Whole Wheat Pudding.

2 cups hot milk
2 cups cooked whole wheat
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup chopped seeded raisins
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix the milk, wheat, salt, and sugar. Add the raisins, beaten egg, and the vanilla. Pour into a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes or until set. Chill before serving.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Feathered fancies for fall are luxurious and extravagant! A hat and bag ensemble of black felt has a tiny bird of white kid and flat white feathers appliqued on both, while flat yellow feathers sewn in petal shapes make the beret and matching capelet of another set.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—When one of those luxurious moments come upon you . . . you know, one of those low spots in the morale when one just has to buy or make or have or wear something extravagant—or else, turn your attention to the velvet glove!

Yessum, the velvet glove. Actually and positively, velvet. 'Cause if you can think of anything more extravagant, I would like to hear about it . . . anything more deliciously expensive, more surely fragile, more obviously fashioned for one or two wearings, at the very most.

Every one in Paris is wondering who she was, the elegante who wore green velvet gloves and a green velvet hat with a white heavy crepe ensemble. There was quite a mad scramble for inside information on whether some republic hadn't just become a monarchy again and released another princess from a tower!

• • • •

The revival of Tristan et Isolde at the Paris Opera has been remarkably successful, both artistically and sartorially. Just one example . . . the Comtesse Bruno de Boisgelin was seen in a lovely evening gown of white silk organdy with large black figures on it, wearing a black velvet coat trimmed with ermine, both designed by Heim.

This is the same couturier who had a positive flash of genius and showed new winter models of fur coats during a certain week in midsummer, at which time Miladi Elegante and Clever was able to order her new winter coat in a new winter model . . . at summer fur prices!

• • • •

If I did, you can! Yes, you can, too. It doesn't take such a good modiste to remodel an old hat, if and when you know exactly how to go about it. I tried it with a flock of my own hats first, before telling you in a leaflet how to do it. There are certain little tricks to it, that's all. How to raise the crown, how to clean and how to press back into shape. All the directions are in the illustrated leaflet of this week, for which you need send only a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. How to Make New Hats From Old is the title of the leaflet. And I'll bet you can, too, from this leaflet!

• • • •

Birds of a feather—'nif you read that once more in this collom, it's your privilege to jump up and down and yell! Every time I read it myself I do! Ennyhow, boids—well, boids then—oh, well! Feathers are the point of this—as you can see by the illustration. And feathers mos' discreetly, suavely, sveltly, smoothed back and down onto the sides of Miladi's hat and onto her bag—white feathers on black.

Or—shades of the royal Imperial Mandarin robe! Flat yellow feathers curled into petal-like shapes—making a beret and a wee cape! 'Nif you don't think that is the height and the depth and the refutation of hard times—well, just figger out how many birds and how many tail feathers and how many clever fingers go into making such things at so much per feather sewn.

• • • • •

Our favorite furrier writes from Paris that the smart women are ordering their winter coats now—and that so far the preference in furs is for black astrakhan and mink for the more formal modes, and gray breitschwantz and maroon caracule. Ermine, of course, continues to be the leader for evening wear.

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

466
MASTERS OF BRIDGE.

MR. CARL T. ROBERTSON, of Cleveland, retired recently as president of the American Whist League. He has played Whist and Bridge since the days when he was a freshman at Harvard in the late '90's, and for the last few decades has attended practically every important Bridge and Whist Tournament. In business life he is an associate editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and specializes as a writer on international politics.

His favorite recreation he finds, however, at the Bridge table, and the hand below, played in the national pair championship of the American Bridge League at Cleveland, gave him and his partner, as well as his opponents, quite a thrill.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 10 ♡ Q 3 2 ◇ A K Q J 9 6 2 ♣ 6 2
♠ A K 6 3 ♡ J 10 7 5 ◇ 4 3 ♣ 10 9 5	N W E S	♠ Q 8 ♡ A 9 4 ◇ — ♣ A K Q J 8 7 4 3
	♠ J 9 7 5 4 2 ♡ K 8 6 ◇ 10 8 7 5 ♣ —

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		3◇	4♣
4◇	Pass	Pass	5♣
5◇	Double	Pass	6♣
6◇	Pass	Pass	7♣
Pass	Pass	Pass

The Grand Slam contract, which was eventually reached, was perhaps slightly ambitious, but there appeared a chance to make it, and the opposing bid of six diamonds did not appear to offer any considerable penalty.

The story of the play—which is extremely interesting, culminating in the making of a grand slam through a triple squeeze—centered around the heroism of the diamond 4 in Dummy. Mr. Robertson stated that "of all the 52 cards in the deck, this humble four-spot was the noblest and the ablest." Standing like a rock, and enabling the Declarer to make the triple squeeze, the four-spot hero died a martyr's death on the thirteenth trick.

Mr. Robertson's partner was Mr. John H. Law, and his opponents Messrs. E. M. Baker and S. L. Guggenheim, all three well known to Bridge players throughout the United States. The defending players—champions both—were unable to do anything against the steadfast attack of the diamond four-spot. The secret of the deal was the refusal of Mr. Robertson to discard the diamond 4. By this means, North was squeezed at Trick 11, after South had been squeezed at Trick 9.

The manner in which the deal was played was as follows:

South opened his fourth best diamond, the 5, which Mr. Robertson ruffed, then followed with six rounds of clubs. South, having no clubs, was compelled to find six discards. He discarded first the 7 and 8 of diamonds, next the 2 of spades, then the 8 of hearts, followed by the 4 of spades, and finally the 10 of diamonds. North followed to clubs twice, then discarded four of his remaining diamonds. From Dummy were discarded the 5, 10 and Knave of hearts respectively. To the eighth trick, Mr. Robertson led the spade Queen, then on the ninth trick followed with another club. North discarded the diamond King, while South parted with the heart 6. To the tenth trick, the spade 8 was led, taken by the King in Dummy, and the Ace of spades now squeezed North. The 4 of Diamonds in Dummy compelled North to retain the Ace, so when the 7 of hearts was led, it felled both North's Queen and South's King, the last trick being won with the heart 9 in Mr. Robertson's hand.

The diamond 4, a lowly card in an adversely held suit, had completely discomfited the opposition.

Today's Pointer.

In preparing for an adverse play, even apparently insignificant cards in an adversely held suit may prove a potent factor in the success of the plan, through limiting the opponents' freedom of discarding.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ 10 8 5 4 ♡ A K Q 7 ◇ 9 8 ♣ 9 7 6
♠ 9 7 6 3 ♡ 10 8 4 3 ◇ K 7 6 5 ♣ 2	N W E S	♠ — ♡ J 9 2 ◇ J 10 4 2 ♣ A K J 8 5 3
	♠ A K Q J 2 ♡ 6 5 ◇ A Q 3 ♣ Q 10 4

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

FEAR—FOR AND AGAINST.

IN his "Bring 'Em Back Alive," Frank Buck indulges in some reflections on animal behavior, in addition to telling some of his adventures with wild animals which he has transported from Asia and Africa to America. One of his observations relates to the universality of fear among wild animals. He writes:

"Kipling has two jungle or animal stories in which he deals with fear among animals. In one he has a group of domestic animals, including elephants, born wild but tamed, discussing fear, each from his standpoint. In another he discusses the behavior of animals when even a greater motive than fear has caused them to suspend all killing at the water hole and the disappearance of fear and the birth of community spirit in consequence. One story is entitled 'How Fear Came;' the title implying that fear is not an instinct inborn and in evidence from the beginning of life."

It may be that fear is acquired, since very young animals are rather foolishly fearless, but the probability is strongly the other way. Watson has shown that fear of falling is present in babies soon after birth. However, that is said by some to be based on the working of certain automatic balancing apparatus in the ear and special muscle sense functioning.

If fear is not universal it is not far from being so. If it does not begin with life and continue to its end it very nearly does. There must be some reason for a motive that is so general. It must serve some useful purpose. It does. Were it not for fear few wild animals would have survived. The list would be almost limited to elephants and a few other large grass eaters and possibly lions and a few other meat eaters. Meat eaters are more dependent on strife for food and existence and therefore the survival is more precarious. In man fear is responsible for the safety movement and even for the science of medicine. It is a dominating influence of every religion that has found favor.

But fear is harmful as well as helpful. Many mental disorders are the result of fear. There are forms of insanity in which the fear picture is the most outstanding feature. The paranoiac who kills to escape those who are pursuing him, according to his delusions, acts upon a fear impulse. Far more harmful are the minor mental maladies which result from fear such as worry, anxiety, the phobias, restless sleep, bad dreams, nightmares, sleep walking and much of neurasthenia and many neuroses. The person with low blood pressure is generally a bag of miscellaneous fears.

A great need of medicine is a scientific study of fear and a developed art of treating it. For fear is not only almost universal and all embracing, but it colors our thinking and molds our opinions when we little think of its doing so. But there is consolation in knowing that we are on the mend. Wild animals are more fearful than are we, and so was primitive man.

CAN'T RUN AWAY.

Mother writes: My daughter is what the doctors call a highly neurotic person. She suffers a great deal with stomach trouble, which seems much worse in cold weather. She is a person of high ideals and the position she holds throws her in contact with very unkind people. She has been lied about a lot and misrepresented. However, she has had two nervous breakdowns and is practically an invalid now. She is also being treated for thyroid trouble. She has been offered an increase in salary if she returns to her position, but she does not want to. Would a change to a warmer climate help her?

REPLY.

Probably not, although some climates are more soothing than others. A diseased thyroid could cause all of her troubles. If so, proper treatment should improve matters greatly. If not thyroid, then she has a poorly controlled nervous system and her need is for training in poise and balance.

It does not pay to run away from trouble. This is especially true if one has an unstable nervous system.

DANDRUFF MAY BE CATCHING.

Mrs. D. D. K. writes:

1. I have heard that dandruff is catching. Is that so?

2. What can I do for dandruff?

3. Should I wash my scalp very often? Is once a week enough?

REPLY.

1. It is thought that at least one scalp trouble that causes dandruff is catching. The proof is not conclusive. Nevertheless, it is advisable to stick to one's own comb and brush.

2. Wash the scalp well and often. Use a little grease after washing. Spend much time brushing your hair daily. You may need the services of a skin specialist.

3. Once a week is not often enough.

YOUR BLOUSE!

Whether you want a blouse to wear with a suit or to wear with a sports skirt, here is a delightful choice.

3102—A happy model for summer days. This particular example was carried out in a gauzy handkerchief linen in white with orangy-red dots. It is easy to imagine how equally charming it is in other colors and materials as tub silks, organdie, batiste, printed voile, &c. It is quickly fashioned and inexpensive. It takes but ¾ yard of 39-inch material for the 16-year size. It comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

2850 — You will adore this fascinating youthful model. The sleeves and neck are so smart. And note the snug hang of the hipline. A blue and white plaided tub silk that looked like gingham made the original. The artist's tie was of plain silk that toned with the blue. Organdie embroidered with dots, striped tub silk, white or pastel shade in crepe silk, lacy woolly type cottons, &c., would also be lovely for to fashion it. It comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. It takes but 1¾ yards of 39-inch material with 1¼ yards of 3-inch ribbon for tie.

3167—Here is a style with numberless possibilities, decided chic and slimness not being the least of its qualities. For hardy all-around wear there are few materials better than a white tub crepe silk. With short sleeves, it's attractive for summer wear in a cotton mesh, pique, dotted batiste, linen, &c. It comes in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It takes but 2¾ yards of 39-inch material for the 36-inch size.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:35 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:35 p. m.

An energetic day is augured for August 8, but in spite of wholehearted effort and the best of motive, nothing will seem to go right. Opposition will spring up from unsuspected quarters, motives will be wrongly interpreted and actions strung up to criticism. The day will not end as merrily as it will begin.

The child born on this August 8 will have an uncommonly good disposition and will seldom be quarrelsome or display fits of temper. It will have the vices, however, which accompany such an easy-going nature, and will lack real driving power and ambition. It will not be hard-headed enough to make a good fighter.

You have the quality of sheer human kindness, if born on August 8. You understand other people's miseries, problems and joys. You never say spiteful things about any one, and never allow malicious tongues to pull another to pieces without putting in a good word for the victim. You are long with excuses for others and very harsh in your own self-judgment. You allow the miseries of the world to pull too hard on your heart strings for your own comfort and happiness.

You do not have much "push" in your make-up, but your tremendous sincerity makes up for its lack. You are very whole-souled and open-minded about everything, and have the rare virtue of "practicing what your preach." You have a personality which will always attract and are often in receipt of admiration which you can not sincerely return.

You will always be sensitive to life's inevitable bruises and unkindnesses, but will become thicker skinned as you grow older. You usually swallow your hurts with a smile, but their sting does not leave you immediately. Your marriage will always be outwardly, if not inwardly, a success. Your horoscope, however, does not show you to be "lucky in love."

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

To Bleach a Seriously Sunburned Skin Is to Add Insult to Injury.

MANY young women fling every bit of care to the four winds when vacation time rolls 'round and welcome this respite from daily labors as a grand holiday. Which is as it should be, and since I am more or less a Saturday's child myself, I must agree that this precious week or two is all too short.

However, lest we forget that our faces can not take a holiday, this column must again repeat the warning, "daily beauty care must go on." There's too much at stake and too much damage to be done, yes, even in two short weeks. This brings us back to the fact that too drastic exposure to the sun may mean a very serious sunburn. And a serious sunburn means discomfort, perhaps even pain, or blisters, and invariably a subsequent coarsening of the skin, a heavy leathery look and enlarged pores.

Furthermore, during vacation time, one may feel indifferent about a coat of tan—let it come if it will. But as soon as one is home again, there's the inevitable hankering for alabaster beauty, which means a good, strong, quick bleach. And it's heaping insult on injury to attempt to bleach a newly sunburned skin with even the mildest agent. Wait until the sunburn is no longer painful and the skin sensitive, before you start bleaching, even if you have an important "dinner date" and have to forego looking your loveliest.

Cornmeal and Buttermilk Bleach.

A mild bleach and an old favorite. In fact, Miss Alison Skipworth, one of Paramount's mature players, who has been gathering beauty recipes for about 20 years, says her grandmother used it and she still finds it the best suntan remedy. Take two cups of yellow corn meal and add sufficient buttermilk to make a thin paste. Spread the mixture over face, neck, arms, and keep moistened by frequent applications of buttermilk over a half hour. Then allow to dry for 40 minutes. Remove with lukewarm water and if the skin is dry, apply a little nourishing cream, massaging gently, and allow to remain for at least 10 minutes. Then remove with tissues and finish treatment by patting with skin tonic or with an ice rub.

Other Bleaching Aids.

There are any number of simple bleaching aids which you can make at home. My bulletin called "Freckles—How to Deal With and Dim Them" gives several recipes. These bleaching remedies are excellent not only for freckles, but for a suntanned, dark, sluggish, discolored skin. A stamped, return envelope with your request, will bring this information to you.

FAIRFAX TOMORROW VOTES ON BYRD LAW

Attacks on Former Senator Bristow as Nonvoter Mark End of Fight.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 243, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The voters of Fairfax County, Va., will make their decision tomorrow at the special election on whether they shall withdraw from the operation of the Byrd road law, establishing the secondary system of State highways. One of the most hotly contested campaigns ever conducted in this county will close with a public meeting at McLean.

Advocates of the Byrd law in the county have made attacks against former United States Senator Joseph W. Bristow, of Kansas, now residing near Annandale, and one of the largest private tax payers in the county, for his activity in the campaign. Bristow is one of the leaders of the fight to retain the present county highway system. He states that "improvements of county roads increase the value of property, and the property should help pay for the roads through real estate taxes, and that the local authorities are better able to judge the improvements needed than are the State commissioners."

Former Senator Assailed.

Proponents of the Byrd road law, in their attack on Senator Bristow, censure him because he expresses his views when he is not a registered voter of Virginia. He answers that he has been invited to express his views at meetings, and as he pays 160th of the entire county taxes he is entitled to express himself on the merits of county road management.

Both sides are expecting a record vote tomorrow and those favoring the withdrawal of the county have been encouraged by the announcement of State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett, of Richmond, which included Fairfax in the list of four counties which he expected to withdraw from the new State system. They state that the four counties named have always been the most progressive in the State in road building, and are suburban to large cities, instead of being rural, as are the majority of counties in the State.

All persons who were qualified to vote last November and all persons who are qualified to vote next November and those who have paid their poll tax 30 days prior to the election tomorrow are eligible to vote tomorrow. Persons who have not yet registered, but who are otherwise qualified to vote, may register today or at the polls tomorrow, and should in either case have their poll tax receipts with them.

Election Judges and Clerks.

The polls will open at sunrise and close at sunset. The judges and clerks of election have been named by the county electoral board, as follows:

Centerville District—Centerville Precinct, J. E. Harrison, R. H. Hawes, C. J. Mohler, Mrs. H. A. Robey and F. S. Mohler; Clifton Precinct, A. J. Kidwell, W. S. Elgin, S. H. Detwiler, R. E. Cross and Alice Woodyards; Fender Precinct, Sylvester Fox, A. A. Birch, Mrs. H. M. F. Palmer, F. B. Alder and Miss Mary C. Millan; Sweetnam Precinct, Michael Carroll, Henry B. Jones, Robert N. Ions and W. A. Hopkins.

Dranesville District—Dranesville Precinct, Marion Money, Charles E. Gardner, Daisy M. Rooney, L. W. Jenkins and George White; Forestville Precinct, D. D. Cornwall, Mark Turner, B. B. Glover, William Walker and M. T. Morris; Herndon Precinct, Purr L. White, George F. Harrison, A. H. Kirk, A. Page Wrenn and John W. Burt; Pleasant Valley Precinct, P. A. Hutchison, H. Tenth Robbery Inspires Pupil to Be Prosecutor

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Samuel Rosenberg would like to be a prosecuting attorney and a very unpopular one with the robbers. He is studying law as well as running a drug store, and had a good excuse for not being prepared with his lesson.

"I'm sorry," he told the dean, "but I've been pretty busy with stickups. My drug store was held up twice in five hours last night and that makes ten times in three years." The dean accepted the excuse, and the robbers $3,000.

Dr. William P. Caton Heads Fairfax Medicos

The Fairfax County Medical Society, meeting at the home of Dr. E. C. Shull in Herndon, elected the following officers for the year:

Dr. William P. Caton, of Accotink, president; Dr. Jesse Thornton Scott, of Vienna, and Dr. Tracy Nolan, of Cherrydale, vice presidents; Dr. A. L. Carson, Fairfax County health officer, secretary, and Dr. F. M. Brooks, of Fairfax, treasurer. Dr. C. A. Ransom, of Falls Church, was elected delegate to the meeting of the State Medical Society.

Lumber Fire Toll $80,000.

Kalispell, Mont., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—A great flock of wild ducks circled over a fire which destroyed part of the Kalispell Lumber Co. plant here, finally plunging into the flames and perishing. The birds apparently were attracted by the light. The fire, starting yesterday, destroyed about 5,000,000 feet of lumber and equipment, with a total loss of upward of $80,000.

Store Is Robbed of $20.

A store at 307 Pennsylvania avenue southeast was entered early yesterday with a duplicate key and robbed of $20, according to Albert Carello, 2526 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, owner of the store.

ELKS START STATE CONVENTION TODAY

Howard W. Smith to Speak at Opening Session in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Representative Howard Worth Smith, of the Eighth Congressional District, past exalted ruler of Alexandria Lodge, No. 578, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will be the principal speaker at the opening session this morning of the State Association of Elks, when 250 delegates are expected to attend, together with a large number of visitors.

Officers of the State body to attend the session are John W. Morrison, Mayor of Harrisonburg, president; T. L. Sclater, Hampton, first vice president; J. G. Mayo, Portsmouth, second vice president; W. N. Perkinson, Danville, third vice president; H. E. Dyer, Roanoke, secretary; the Rev. L. L. Bowers, Danville, chaplain; Judd A. Monroe, Hampton, sergeant at arms; E. T. Snider, Winchester, tiler; trustees, J. B. Bliley, Richmond; J. G. Sizer, Richmond; Dr. G. H. Reese, Petersburg, and Morris Spiro, Harrisonburg.

Meetings will be held in the lodge room of the Elks' Home, and the reports will be mainly of the charitable work of the organization.

W. Glenn Elliott, of Richmond, department adjutant, American Legion of Virginia, has written to Capt. John S. Arnold, of the Alexandria Police Department, a letter of appreciation for the courtesies shown the legion and auxiliary members by the Alexandria Police Department while attending the State convention in this city last week.

A meeting of the local convention committee will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Gadsby's Tavern to wind up the affairs of that body.

The Alexandria Light Infantry, officially Company I, First Virginia Infantry, National Guard, left yesterday for a two weeks' encampment at Virginia Beach under command of Capt. W. Cameron Roberts and First Lieut. W. Milton Glasgow.

Fire Damages House On Little River Pike

Fire of unknown origin partially destroyed the small house on the farm of Aubrey B. Price near Ilda, about 3 miles south of Fairfax, Va., on the Little River pike, Saturday night. There was no one in the house at the time the fire was discovered. It was believed to have originated in a small closet where Christmas tree trimmings were stored.

The Volunteer Fire Department of the town of Fairfax was called, and by quick work the blaze was confined to one room. The loss, mostly by water, was estimated to be about $500.

Chicago Clerks Dubious Of New American Coins

Chicago, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—It has taken a formal pronunciamento from the Federal Reserve Bank today to put the stamp of authenticity on a United States coin.

It was the new Washington quarters that caused the trouble. Some storekeepers refused to accept them yesterday. When they first began to trickle through the tills of the loop, and not until statements from Federal Reserve officers were printed by the newspapers did the shopmen accept them willingly. About 600,000 of the new coins, struck as part of the Washington Bicentennial, have been distributed in the Seventh Reserve District.

Paroled Convict Is Held Killer of Holdup Victim

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—George Webb, 25, a paroled convict, was identified today by a witness as the slayer of Herman M. Holtz during a holdup last week of the Cities Ice Cream Co. here.

Louis Hartz, an employe of the company present when the bandit entered, said Holtz was shot in the back as he was obeying a command to raise his hands. Webb was released on parole from the Michigan City (Ind.) Penitentiary a year ago where he served a term for robbery.

Big Crowds See Racing Snakes at Bronx Zoo

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The pine snakes in the Bronx Zoo, suddenly Olympics-conscious, have taken up racing, to the delight of visitors.

It is an "everybody chase everybody" affair, similar to the old "Irish marathon," and the eight reptiles keep it up for hours at a time. There are no rules and no rewards except the applause of the spectators. So popular has the eight become that the attendance at the zoo is expected to exceed 3,000,000 this year for the first time in its history.

Heart Attack Kills Woman in Auto.

Heart disease caused the death of Dorothy Page, colored, 25, of 1026 Kenyon street northwest, as she was riding in an automobile yesterday afternoon at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road with Arthur Diggs, colored, also of 1026 Kenyon street.

Asthmatic Is Continuing Fast Beyond 40 Days

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, Aug. 7.—Although his self-imposed fast of 40 days, designed to cure his asthma, ended two days ago, Louis Garden, Rosemont's hermit, is still trying to do without food. Yesterday when a delegation from a ladies' aid society at Flemington called at his home and offered him a basket of food, he politely refused, declaring that he was feeling much better, but that, as he still had difficulty in breathing, he purposed to continue his fast until he fell over.

All that Garden has taken since he began his fast is a quantity of mineral spring water. County authorities are considering the advisability of taking charge of him and resorting to enforced feeding.

"Reign of Terror" Arouses Ohioans

Citizens in Mine Strike Form Vigilance Group to Ban Disorders.

Athens, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The roar of another dynamite blast in the strike-ridden coal fields of Athens County still ringing in their ears, indignant citizens today announced formation of a vigilance committee to combat "this reign of terror and sabotage."

The dynamiting of a house at Jacksonville and near rioting at Glouster last night were the latest developments in the desultory warfare that has gripped Athens County since the bituminous coal strike was called April 1. The home of Daniel McKinley, mine employe, was wrecked by the dynamite explosion. Damage was estimated officially at about $6,000.

A disorderly crowd at Glouster was dispersed by Ohio National Guardsmen with the use of tear gas bombs. The soldiers were called by local authorities who had been unable to break up the crowd.

Man Kills Wife, Hurts Son, Stabs Self Dead

Milton, Fla., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Surrounded by several hundred spectators at a baseball game here today, Abner Collingsworth, 30, of Milton, killed his wife by slashing her throat with a knife, and then killed himself in the same manner. Collingsworth also stabbed his son, Abner, jr., 6, but doctors said the boy's wound was not serious.

Collingsworth's brother, John, was pitching for the Milton Team at the time of the tragedy. The game was halted.

Slain Policeman's Kin Held in Doctor's Killing

North Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Clyde S. Roath, 53-year-old physician awaiting a second trial for the slaying of Patrolman Luther W. Lindsey, was shot and fatally wounded here today.

Patrolman Jim Lindsey, a brother of the slain officer, was ordered held on a charge of murder by Prosecuting Attorney Carl E. Bailey after Dr. Roath, in a dying statement, had named him as his assailant.

Crash Near Waynesboro Kills One and Injures 3

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Walter King, of Waynesboro, was killed instantly tonight in an automobile accident near here in which three other persons were injured, one seriously.

Freck Drumheller, who received a broken leg and possible internal injuries when the car overturned, was in a critical condition at a Waynesboro hospital. William Shuey and Boyd Fields, both of Waynesboro, were less seriously injured.

G.O.P. IN ARLINGTON TO CONVENE TONIGHT

144 Delegates Will Attend Meeting at Lyon Park Community House.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington County Republican convention will be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community House. A total of 144 delegates from the eleven voting precincts will attend.

L. C. McPherson is being strongly indorsed for the office of county chairman, G. E. Spaulding having announced he would not stand for reelection.

In addition to the election of the new county chairman, 36 delegates will be selected to attend the Eighth District Republican congressional convention in the Washington-Lee High School August 22.

The campaign which has been waged in Arlington County for the past six weeks, conceded to have been the most bitter ever held over the question whether Arlington County should withdraw from the provisions of the Byrd road act, closed Saturday night. Workers on both sides were busy yesterday completing their plans to get the vote out tomorrow.

The polls will open at sunrise, 5:15 a. m., and close at sunset, 7:15 p. m.

A resolution urging reduced electric rates in Arlington County has been adopted by the Barcroft School and Civic League.

A card party under the auspices of the league will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. G. L. Hogan.

The Guild of St. George's Episcopal Church announced a social at the parish hall Thursday night. A program is being arranged.

8 Held in Fairfax Prohibition Drive

Dance Halls Are Objects of Several Raids in County.

Continuing their drive against driving while intoxicated and drunkenness at the public dance halls in Fairfax County, Va., the county police Saturday night arrested eight persons for violation of the State prohibition law. They were all placed in the county jail and will be given a hearing this morning before Judge Paul E. Brown, of the county trial justice court.

At McLean, the police arrested Marvin Johnson, of Clarendon, charging him with possession of liquor, drunkenness and disorderly conduct. At Baileys Cross Roads they arrested Paul Brown, 35, of 341 Kentucky avenue southeast, Washington, for driving while under the influence of ardent spirits and William Hummer, 41, of 349 Tenth street southeast, for being drunk.

At the Bull Run dance hall, Thomas Johnson, 21, of Annandale, was arrested on a charge of possession of ardent spirits. At Vienna, Floyd Dennis, 27, of 1113 D street southeast, Washington; Frances P. Payne, of 1332 I street northwest, Washington; Howard Gooding, 18, of Vienna; Walter Lee, 18, of Vienna, and Lyle Cockerill, 22, of Vienna, were all arrested and charged with being drunk.

Baltimorean Arrested Second Time in Fairfax

James O. Brunner, of 704 Mosier street, Baltimore, Md., was arrested yesterday by State Traffic Inspector J. Bullock near Fairfax. He was charged with reckless driving and failing to answer a summons to appear in the Fairfax County trial justice court issued on July 13.

Police say Brunner was arrested for reckless driving on July 13 by Inspector Bullock. Instead of being placed in jail at Fairfax, he was given a summons, according to the new State traffic law. He failed to appear in court the next day, and yesterday, while going through the town of Fairfax, he was arrested the second time and placed in the Fairfax County Jail for hearing tomorrow on both charges, which are separate offenses.

$5 PAY SCALE LAGS IN MINERS' BALLOT

Returns From 118 of 240 Illinois Locals Show Ratification Trailing.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The outcome of balloting by Illinois miners in a second referendum proposing a $5 daily basis wage rate was in doubt tonight.

Returns from 118 of the 240 locals in the State showed:

For ratification, 13,353; against ratification, 16,992.

A similar proposal to fix the basic wage at $5 met decisive defeat in a referendum three weeks ago. Balloting was heavier in the second vote taken yesterday, and John L. Lewis, International Miners Union president, and John H. Walker, district president, expressed hope the scale would be approved.

The referendum climaxed negotiations between union officials and operators at the request of Gov. L. L. Emmerson, after mines halted operations upon expiration of the old wage scale of $6.10 on March 31.

Several slight changes were made in the basic wage proposal after its defeat three weeks ago, and Lewis and Walker, former foes in union affairs, united in a campaign for adoption of the new scale.

Union officials said ratification was the only means of bringing work back to the idle in the coal fields. Several members expressed the opinion, however, if they fought the scale, the operators would be forced to return to the previous wage scale.

W. Y. Wildman, manager of the Illinois Coal Traffic Bureau and a leader among operators, warned "Illinois is in for a lot of trouble if the $5 scale is rejected." He mentioned mine riots in Indiana and stated operators were unable to pay the old rate here.

100-Mile-Wide Path Charted For Watching Sun's Eclipse

Various Phenomena to Accompany Few Minutes of Darkness Described by Hellweg in Revealing New England Vantage Points for Sight August 31.

(Associated Press.)

Superintendent Frederick Hellweg of the Naval Observatory, in a radio address yesterday, mapped a 100-mile wide path across the New England States from which the total eclipse of the sun on August 31 can be seen.

Speaking over a National Broadcasting Co. network, Capt. Hellweg said:

"Take an automobile chart of the New England States and mark on it a point about half way between North Conway and Fryeburg, approximately 3 miles from North Conway. * * * Mark a point a mile to the southward of Cape Porpoise, on the Maine Coast. Draw a line connecting those two points and you will have the middle line of the path of totality.

"To continue the line to the northward, take a point about 3 miles to the eastward of Guildhall, Vt., and another point 7 miles to the eastward of Sorol on the south bank of the St. Lawrence River. Connect these two points with the point to the eastward of North Conway in the New Hampshire and you will have the entire middle line from our Canadian border across northern Vermont, northern and central New Hampshire and southern Maine.

"Now draw two parallel lines, one on either side of the middle line of totality and space them 50 miles from the middle line. You will have traced on your map a path 100 miles wide extending clear across the New England States. If you locate your party any place within that path you will see the total eclipse in all its splendor."

He advised observers to avoid tall trees or buildings to the southwest of their vantage points. He cautioned to have smoked glass enough for all in the party, since the eclipse will last only a few minutes.

Hellweg said accompanying phenomena would include: "Baily's Beads," sections of brilliant light caused by the sun light shining between mountains on the moon; the shadow of the moon sweeping down upon observers from the northwest; a series of shadows covering the surface of the fields like waves (best observed by amateurs with the aid of a sheet spread taut on the ground; possible change in wind direction and a temperature drop; the corona, beautiful streamers of pearl colored light extending across the heavens after the sun has been completely blotted out, and views of many beautiful stars and planets in the darkened heavens.

"Pay close attention to the corona," Hellweg advised, "for it is the prima donna of the celestial opera."

Threat for Borah Party Foreseen by Dr. Wilson

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Methodist dry leader, declared here today that unless President Hoover, in his acceptance message, places his personal stamp of approval on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, a "William E. Borah party" will spring up within 24 hours.

"With such a leader," he said, "the decent people of the United States will have somewhere to go."

He addressed a gathering at the annual Methodist picnic for churches in the Puget Sound District.

MINISTER ARRESTED IN WIFE'S POISONING

His Girl Bride Is Released; Couple Said to Admit Love Affair.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—County Attorney Philip K. Oldham said tonight S. A. Berrie, Muskogee minister, had admitted a love affair with his 19-year-old bride before the death from poison of his first wife. He and the girl were married May 17, two months after his first wife died.

Both Berrie and his girl wife admitted they had been in love prior to the death of Berrie's first wife, and that Berrie had written passionate verse to her, Oldham said.

The county attorney said both had denied any knowledge of the alleged poisoning, although Berrie said his wife, whom he said was jealous and irritable, had threatened suicide.

No charges were filed, Berrie being held technically "for investigation," pending the grand jury hearing tomorrow. County Attorney Oldham ordered the young wife released tonight, saying she apparently was the "victim of circumstances."

Oldham said he would present in evidence passionate verses and notes, discovered in the minister's bookcase.

Among the verses allegedly in Berrie's handwriting, was the following: "Could I just hold you in my embrace,
And kiss your rosy lips
And look into your baby face
And like the bee that honey sips
The joys that life doth give
To me no other one can be;
For you alone I live.
Oh, why can't we be free?"

Berrie formerly held pastorates at Tulare, Calif.; Ralls, Tex.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Raemer, Tenn., and Searcy, Ark., whence he came to Muskogee.

One Smoker tells ANOTHER

WHEREVER you buy CHESTERFIELDS on land or on sea, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door—have one if you will. I think you will find that they are milder—that they taste better.

I have noticed that CHESTERFIELDS are made right—not hard and soft; no flabby cigarettes—each one well-filled. They are the right size to smoke cool and comfortable.

FILIPINOS CHANGE PLANS.

With members of the Philippine independence commission back in the islands and Congress in recess, the Filipino people are trying to appraise the progress of recent months toward independence. In some respects the disposition of Congress to grant their demands for independence has shocked the Filipinos. They were even more astounded than was the American public when the House of Representatives passed an independence bill in 40 minutes. This performance, perhaps more than anything else, has brought the Filipinos to realize that their independence is an economic question in Congress.

Dissemination of the American point of view in the islands has had a salutary effect. The Filipinos understand now that many members of Congress are ready to give them immediate freedom for the purpose of levying tariffs against their sugar and cocoanut oil. If independence is to mean restriction of their export markets, which are almost entirely within the United States, the Filipinos are not so certain that they want to sever the tie with Uncle Sam.

Until about a year ago no politician in the Philippines dared to hint of any status for the islands short of immediate, complete and absolute independence. But when it appeared that Congress might grant that demand, some of the Filipino leaders began to talk of a probationary period in which the islands could be allowed to continue free trade with the United States while adjusting their affairs for ultimate independence. Legislation carrying out that idea came very near to passage at the last session of Congress. Filipino leaders are now worried over the probable outcome of such a venture, and are discreetly suggesting other possible arrangements under which the islands would be given a greater degree of autonomy, while retaining tariff preferences and military protection.

Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate and leading political thinker of the Philippines, suggested after his return to Manila that it is freedom and not essentially independence that the Filipinos seek. It is true that he fears Congress would not grant the Philippines full rights of self-government on a satisfactory basis. Nevertheless, he has thrown out the thought that the status of Canada is much preferable to that of some other countries that are nominally independent.

One other phase of the question has assumed much importance in the Filipino mind. A few years ago Filipino politicians were willing to take a chance on maintaining their independence against foreign aggression. Now they take a different view. They do not attempt to hide their concern over what might happen if the United States should completely withdraw. The fiery patriots who used to shout for "immediate, complete and absolute independence" now talk more quietly about the maintenance of a foothold by the United States in the islands "as an insurance against foreign aggression."

Most of the leaders still maintain that they are willing to risk foreign aggression and economic chaos for the sake of "freedom". Yet they are worried over the difficulties that a small independent nation in the Pacific would encounter. There is a disposition to shift the entire responsibility to the people, by conducting a plebiscite after a probationary period.

The attitude of the Filipino people is undergoing evolution. What the outcome will be is difficult to predict, but it seems probable that the Filipinos will endeavor to retain preferences in the American market and protection from the American Navy. An experiment with economic separation would certainly give impetus to that sentiment.

THE MOTOR AGE.

Nothing testifies to the individual distribution of wealth among the entire population more pointedly than the fact that Americans, who compose about 15 per cent of the population of the advanced nations, own 75 per cent of all the motor vehicles in the world. All the residents of the United States could ride in automobiles at once without crowding. The development of this great industry has come in the short space of 40 years.

After the Civil War the veterans of that conflict went West and took up farms. Only the more fortunate among them could boast a spring wagon. It was not until the mid-70s that American farmers in any number began to own individual transportation in the form of buggies. A decade later came the bicycle. Then the Chicago Exposition displayed for the first time the work of cranks who thought they could produce a "horseless carriage." It is interesting to note that a recent review of the first automobile tests and races is written by one of the pioneer automobile manufacturers still living—Charles A. Duryea.

In June, 1892, the Duryea brothers, Charles and Frank, drove their first motor car out of Springfield, Mass., in a successful trial. The vehicle did things a horse could not do, but it did not sell. It was not "experimental" mechanically, but it was socially. Following the Chicago exhibition and the astounding road races, motor transportation began to receive attention. The Duryeas' car won the first two road contests in America, and over the first British road course won "by 72 minutes faster in 52 miles than the best Europe had." By the spring of 1896 the Duryeas were selling some cars, and one of the machines carried by Barnum's circus was a great attraction.

What a contrast between this struggling start, made by men still active in life, and the present industry! Last year, the second in the world depression, there were 25,545,281 motor vehicles licensed for operation in the United States. Among the States New York shows the greatest number of cars, 2,297,241. California is a close second with 2,043,281. Pennsylvania has 1,741,942 cars, Illinois 1,612,770, and other States having more than a million are Texas, Michigan and Ohio.

The importance of the motor car in national economy is also shown in the amount of taxes it pays. The average car makes an annual contribution of $34.17, the gross receipts from motor vehicle fees and licenses amounting to $344,337,654 and the gasoline tax to $537,589,717.

Considering its effect upon the expansion of cities, the growth of allied industries, and the habits of the people, the automobile is an invention of unparalleled importance.

A UNIFIED BANKING SYSTEM.

Under direction of the National Industrial Conference Board an intensive study of the American banking system was recently completed. It brings into bold relief the defects of the banking system as revealed in the last three years of depression. The effect of this report and of every other survey of banking trends in the United States is to emphasize the urgency of remodeling the present law.

The foremost evidence of weakness in the banking system is the large number of failures in recent years. During the ten years preceding the World War only 714 American banks failed. In the eleven and a half years since the war period 10,093 banks have closed their doors. Bank mortality has been especially heavy in the last three years. An epidemic of failures was curbed by the credit extension act and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Nevertheless, 808 banks failed during the first six months of 1932. In 1931 failures totaled 2,298.

Most of the banks unable to weather the storm were operating under State charters. In the period from 1921 to 1929 86.5 per cent of the failures were State banks. In 1930 the proportion was 88 per cent. Of the 808 defunct institutions closing their doors in the first half of this year 638 operated under State charters. In general State banks are so weak as to be a menace to the economic stability of the country.

Most of the defunct banks are small. In fact, the mortality among this class is so high, regardless of good or bad times, that the number of banks in the country is steadily diminishing, in spite of an enormous growth in combined banking resources. In 1921 the United States had 30,104 incorporated banks with combined resources of $49,496,084,000. Ten years later the number of banks had fallen to 21,787, in spite of the fact that their aggregate resources had increased to $70,127,004,000.

The trend toward larger and stronger banks is unmistakable. Failures remove thousands of small institutions, and others are absorbed by the growth of branch banking. The question is whether the Government shall allow this process to go on, involving as it does extensive losses to depositors in some cases, or take positive action to unify and strengthen the present medley of banking systems.

The Industrial Conference Board finds that the trend of events in recent years has served to stimulate the long-standing competition between State and national banks. There are in operation about 6,300 national banks and nearly twice as many State banks, but the combined resources of the national banks is approximately double the combined resources of the State banks. If Congress should tighten its regulations over national banks, the tendency would be a migration of capital to institutions with State charters. In these circumstances more strict regulations for national banks would tend to defeat the general purpose of strengthening the banking system.

Competition in granting bank charters is fundamentally unsound. So long as control over commercial banks is divided among 49 different agencies conditions are certain to be unsatisfactory, failures must continue to be numerous and progress toward better banking must necessarily be slow. The conclusion resulting from the board's survey is that "because of the growing interdependence of national economic life, the American banking system would seem to require greater geographical consolidation or unification than exists at the present time."

There seems to be no question that informed opinion is moving toward a unified commercial banking system under control of the Federal Government. Here is a formidable problem for Congress to attack. In spite of the sound logic of a unified banking system, strenuous opposition to the plan will be made by the States. They can not be expected willingly to suspend their rights to charter banks, even though that course is best for the country as a whole.

The subject should be investigated thoroughly from the standpoint of the country's welfare, and economic considerations should be placed above politics or tradition in arriving at the final conclusion.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Congressional vigilance against setting the Government up in business is always commendable, but it is unfortunate that the House of Representatives undertook an investigation along this line during the present recess. Investigations just prior to a general election nearly always take on a political aspect, and not infrequently they are diverted to the exclusive business of manufacturing political ammunition.

Both parties and a large majority of the people condemn in principle any competition by the Government with its citizens in the field of private enterprise. Americans have no taste for socialism. Even if they were convinced that Government operation of business were practical, they would continue to demand that political authority be restricted to its proper field. Socialistic experiments are usually considered as so much political quackery that are designed to secure the votes of a certain class rather than to promote the public welfare.

It is necessary, however, to draw a line between such "experiments" and legitimate projects undertaken by the Government to aid business, agriculture, or labor. If Uncle Sam should begin operating the Muscle Shoals plants, for example, and distribute power to private users in competition with established commercial enterprises, the Government would be invading the field of business. But when Congress sets up a reconstruction agency to help institutions that are essential to the economic well-being of the country, it is merely aiding private enterprise to keep on functioning. This is not in any way an encroachment upon private business.

There are some functions in the economic set-up of a modern nation that can not well be performed by private concerns. Examples are the postal service and the Federal Reserve system. Government control over other agencies of a quasi-public nature, such as the railroads, has been found advisable. The Government is endeavoring to organize farmers into economic groups to better control agricultural marketing. That can not be considered an invasion of the field of private enterprise. If the Farm Board had not indulged in price stabilization efforts, it could not well be accused of extending the arm of Uncle Sam into private business.

Competitive enterprises into which the Government has ventured are not numerous. The agencies that are set up to aid private initiative should not be confused with direct business competition. If the investigating committee will confine its activities to those instances in which the Government has gone beyond its duty to supervise, regulate and assist agencies vital to the public welfare, and is actually competing with private business, it can perform a useful service. Otherwise, it will only serve to confuse the issue.

Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, chairman of the House committee on foreign affairs, insists that the Bolivia-Paraguay dispute shall be submitted to the world court, as his committee has gone fishing for the summer.

If Mr. Hoover confines his acceptance speech to what he must say it will not be as long as if he should say what he would like to say.

Mother England proves to be a thrifty dame when it comes to distributing bread and meat favors to thankless children.

The direful bombast and horrendous manifestos of Bolivia and Paraguay threaten to make mere war a tame proceeding.

A BLACK MOON.

From the Providence Journal.

Who has seen a black moon? Some have seen a blue moon, but this is so uncommon that its rarity has passed into a proverb of infrequency. Silvery is the term that the poets apply to the new moon, and golden to the full moon. Sometimes, owing to the heaviness of the air near the horizon, the moon may rise or set wearing a deep red, as if, in the scriptural phrase, it had turned to blood. But when, if ever, is the moon black?

It can only be when its side turned toward the earth is wholly unlighted. Then, why not in an eclipse of the moon? It then has a deep shade over it, but its hue is coppery, and it is lighted so well that we can even make out its face. This is due to irradiation through the earth's atmosphere. The rays of the hidden sun are bent around the solid body of the earth and fall upon the moon, which at that time is always exactly full. We shall have to look for some other time if we are to find it black.

Is there any time when the moon as it looks at us is wholly unlighted? Yes, just when it is passing from old to new, for then the opposite side of the moon receives all the sunlight, and our side none. But, if it is not lighted, how can we see it at all? As a matter of fact we usually cannot, particularly since it is so near the sun as to be lost in its brightness. The moon would surely be black if we could see it, but how are we ever going to? We have only to wait for an eclipse of the sun.

Whether the eclipse be total or partial, the blackened part of the sun, as it seems to us, is not the sun at all, but this very moon that we are looking for. There is no doubt about its blackness. The Bible compares it to the blackest haircloth. But no hair or ink or jet was ever so black as this black moon, and, when the eclipse is total and this great black ball hangs in heaven, blotting out the sun, one must have strong nerves to behold it without a sudden feeling of terror. It is a black moon, black beyond our wildest imaginings. If once we see it, we never shall forget it, and we shall be fortunate if it does not haunt our dreams.

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Dollar Got "Familiar."

Minneapolis Journal: An oil station man somewhere has achieved fame by refusing an unfamiliar silver dollar, because he thought it was counterfeit. If somebody had offered him a twenty dollar gold piece, he might have sent for the police.

But the Cow May Insist.

Atlanta Constitution: A dairyman says he gets more milk by milking his cows to a banjo accompaniment. We hardly think the additional milk worth the trouble of learning to pick a banjo and milk a cow at the same time, however.

Five-Day Pay Week.

Boston Transcript: If it should be found that a five-day week accomplishes as much as a six-day week used to, an effort will undoubtedly be made to have five days' pay do the same, but there will be an awful lot of squawking during the readjustment.

Afraid They Might Learn.

Atlanta Constitution: It is charged that employers hesitate to hire a man over 40 because they claim they can't teach him anything. Well, in order to teach one anything, it is of course necessary to know more than he does.

Optimists Turning on One.

Christian Science Monitor: The trouble with many pessimistic people is that they think prosperity should turn that corner on two wheels.

Tear Gas Onions Better.

Detroit News: That tearless onion, developed in Texas, may be useful to express one's opinion of the adjournment of Congress some time, if saying it with flowers.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TUFFY.

All the house is sad today,
Tuffy has been laid away!
Tuffy, blithe of heart and brave,
Slumbers in a little grave.
Oh, the bitter tears we've shed
Over happy Tuffy, dead!

Just a dog! Well, maybe so,
To the folks who come and go,
But to Janet and to me,
He was friendly company;
Honest, faithful, tender, too!
More so than some men he knew.

Tuffy had the sort of mind
Unto friendliness inclined.
Watched for Janet day by day
Coming home from school to play;
Knew the time and o'er and o'er
Stood to greet her at the door.

Say it's foolish, if you will,
But we're grieving for him still.
Say that dogs should dwell apart
And not crawl into your heart
So their deaths can sadden you,
But the trouble is they do.

A Few Losers Can't Change a Rule That Enables the Many to Win

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICA'S comic cartoons, almost without exception, draw their stale humor from the assumption that wives and husbands live in perpetual strife.

This alone should convince the observant critic that matrimonial quarrels are few and unimportant, for the very essence of humor is contrast. The thing that is usual never seems funny.

As a matter of fact, marriage offers the ordinary man his one hope of happiness in an imperfect world.

It may be true that one marriage in each seven now ends on the rocks. It is conceded that the mismated are the most miserable of men. But still the fact remains, clearly apparent to all who search for truth, that ordinary people are happy in marriage and seldom happy for long anywhere else.

The explanation is not the one commonly given.

Mating is natural and life seldom is kind to those who violate the laws of nature. Those who would be physically and mentally normal must develop and exercise all of their normal faculties and capacities. And those who do not mate are incomplete, as they would be if they never made use of their natural capacity for anger, fear, laughter or enthusiasm.

But the happiness given to the married, and seldom to any one else, is not a product of sex alone.

Unthinking youth is happy because it has health and a full stomach and a lusty appetite for life. Its friendships are easily made and easily broken. It can be happy among casual acquaintances.

But life becomes lonely as the years pass. Illusions fade; hope fails; dreams are shattered. Disappointments and hard experience destroy faith. Things attained lose their value.

And at last appears the truth that life holds nothing of permanent value except friendship.

That is the secret of matrimonial bliss.

Marriage alone gives man a loyal friend. The married man, though obscure and insignificant, poor in goods and spirit and despised by the world, still has one loyal friend in whose heart he is enshrined as the most important and most necessary of men.

Marriage alone gives man a friend whose smile of welcome never fails, whose eyes are always kind, who always trusts and helps and loyally stands by in spite of failure, poverty and disgrace. And nothing can destroy an institution that gives the humblest man or woman a never-failing friend.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Worst Offenders.
New York Times.

From the beginning of the invasion of Washington by the veterans the men most blameworthy were members of Congress who not only cringed before the political threat but inflamed it. And now, at the end of humiliating and disastrous experience in Washington, some of the same politicians are behaving much worse than any of the ex-soldiers. When poor "Commander" Waters gets it his patter about "the money power" and about the need of restoring the Government to the common people, everybody knows where he got his impulse. It was given by congressmen who egged him on and filled his head with wild notions. He is really less responsible than is, for example, Representative Patman, of Texas, who continues to pour out encouragments to those who would raid the Treasury, ruin the credit of the Government, and bring both Congress and the administration into contempt.

The Heflin Handicap.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Gov. Roosevelt has now incurred the support of old "Tom" Heflin. The former firebrand of the Senate threatens to take the stump in the fall in behalf of the Democratic national ticket, and it is probably too late to head him off. He will devote his energies to the winning of the West, and if he runs true to form should stir up quite a crop of trouble for the Democratic candidate.

The Hoover Economy Program.
Minneapolis Journal.

In opening the Democratic campaign Friday evening, Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, devoted himself chiefly to attacks on Mr. Hoover, whom he accused of failure to propose any program of economic recovery for two years after the storm first broke in October, 1929.

This, of course, is a palpable distortion of the facts. Mr. Hoover lost no time in getting the chiefs of industry and commerce and labor together to agree on a program of maintained wages and no strikes. Promptly, too, he enlisted the leaders of business in a campaign against unemployment. At that time, no one foresaw how long or deep the depression trough was to be. The hope was universal that "prosperity was just around the corner," and general cooperation in holding fast seemed the chief thing necessary. Certainly neither Senator Harrison nor any other Democratic leader foretold what was to come or suggested how it could be forestalled.

The Washington Riot.
Minneapolis Journal.

The bonus army is in forced retreat from Washington. That its ousting was not accomplished without bloodshed is unfortunate. That only one fatally resulted is surprising, in view of the numbers involved and the violent resistance offered by a large body of belligerent men. That a great deal more bipod would have been shed and a far more serious situation would have developed had the forced evacuation been delayed much longer is altogether likely.

Liquor Kicks In, Not Out.

The argument now going on among the Democrats of Kentucky over the candidacy of Senator Barkley for renomination demonstrates once more the impossibility of "kicking the liquor question out of politics."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Suggests Abolition of the Civil Service and Federal Trade Commissions as Economic Step.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by your columns that members of the Civil Service Commission crave more jurisdiction, "or worlds to conquer," and attack appointments made without regard to their examinations in the departments.

In the interests of economy and efficient administration the Civil Service Commission could well be abolished, inasmuch as all the departments have personnel divisions and could give required examinations whenever needed in line with the duties to be performed. Its abolishment would leave the competitive appointments with the statutory protection to the employe, as they now have. And at present, under the law, as I understand it, no examinations are being held for the reason new appointments can not be made. Classification commissions, or whatever they are, should go.

The Federal Trade Commission also should be dispensed with and the work placed under an Assistant Attorney General, who could do the work better than the entire cross-minded commission of lawyers, farmers and what not. The complaints now coming before the commission could be investigated by the agents of the Department of Justice attached to the various judicial districts, thus saving much time, red tape and traveling expense and eliminating the tweedledee-tweedledum of a commission investigation, powwowing, hearings, and final decision after all by the courts.

REFORMER ECONOMIST.

Bonus Army Must Be Kept Out of Washington, Says Veteran—President Hoover Is Praised for Courageous Action.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The bonus army, so-called, has become an army of bums and roustabouts and should be scattered to the four corners of the Nation at bayonet point. What was originally a gesture for the payment in advance of money that will be due in a few years has degenerated into a threatening mob. I take off my hat to President Hoover for his courage in breaking up this nondescript assortment of fakers, disgruntled underlings and Russianized reds. The real veterans among them should go home at once.

The honest veterans of the World War are properly represented in the National Capital and need no field commander in chief like this chap Waters. It is all right to petition Congress and to maintain a decent "lobby," but I am one who has turned from a bonus advocate to an anti-bonus voter on the strength of what has occurred. Washington should be cleared of all organized bands and anybody who wants to present a claim should do so through regularly authorized committees. The idea of an armed force surrounding the White House and the legislative halls—it is a threat implied if not direct. I hope the President orders out enough troops to run this mob out of the city, to keep them out of the city, and that nearby States will keep them on the move. A. E. H.

What Need of a Mayor Nowadays?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago in Thursday's Post says that "The warning that Chicago soon may have no city government unless property owners pay their taxes again sounded through City Hall today," the statement being based upon the fact that four of the city's largest banks announced that they are "through purchasing tax warrants which are to be redeemed when collection of taxes permits."

On another page of the same issue of The Post appears an Associated Press dispatch from Bremerhaven, Germany, announcing the arrival there of Mayor Anton Cermak, Mayor of Chicago, on a visit to Prague, the city of his birth, prior to visits to Carlsbad, Berlin and doubtless other continental places of interest. From this it would seem that Chicago's plight does not worry Chicago's mayor—at least, not "so's you would notice it."

Within the past three or four years, three mayors, chief executives of the three largest cities of the United States, have visited Europe during their terms of office.

Is this office of mayor really an important one? Have we missed much here in Washington by denial of the privilege of electing a mayor to rule over us—and visit Europe?

JOHN BOYER.

Missouri Ready to be Shown That Borah Is a Statesman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The sudden metamorphosis of Senator Borah as regards Europe is the political sensation of the season. Are we really at last to have a statesman at Washington? Has the senator resolved to qualify for this high station, seeing that it is, and for a long time has been, vacant and unoccupied? If so, and if he worthily completes his term as neophyte, the Nation will welcome him gladly and invite him to sit in its innermost penetralia.

Gov. Pinchot Wants $60,400 for Expenses in Disbursing Borrowed Money.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Pinchot has applied for a $45,000,000 relief loan from the National Government. There are 70 counties in Pennsylvania. Probably 15 or 20 of these may really need extra aid for relief. A check from the Treasury Department in exchange for the proper papers from the county and the deal should be closed. For this work alone the governor thinks he will need $60,400 for his own office.

U. S. DUTY ON LATIN PRODUCTS ASSAILED

Educator Says We Should Provide Markets for South America.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, in an address to the Institute of Politics today condemned the duties on Latin-American products inflicted by the Smoot-Hawley bill and subsequent legislation.

American duties of flax seed and linseed have struck a serious blow at Argentine industries, he said, and Cuba resents the "excessive duty" on sugar. He described Peru and Chile as bitter over the addition of a 4 per cent duty on copper to the existing duty.

This "short-sighted" tariff policy arouses anti-American sentiment in the affected countries, he claimed, cuts down our Latin-American exports by 75 per cent and prevents payment of services and dividends in kind on $6,000,000,000 in American loans and investments.

"Instead of irritating Latin-America with a high tariff," he concluded, "we should help them pay their debts by providing a market for their products."

Couple Is Rescued And Yacht Beached

Ship Hits Hidden Object; Speedboat at Scene Nearly Swamped.

Rock Hall, Md., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Gorham Clifton, of Wyne, Pa., were rescued by the Tristate Fleet flagship, Utopia, and their 40-foot motor yacht was beached near here totday after the boat hit a submerged object, believed to have been a log, and started to sink.

The Clifton craft Gee-Cee, was with the Tristate Fleet, returning from the Mills River regatta at St. Michaels to its clubhouse at Worton, when Mrs. Clifton discovered the boat filling with water. She grabbed the side and held on, as she could not swim, while Tracey Johnson, the pilot, turned toward shore to beach it. Clifton rescued his wife with a small speedboat and was on his way to shore when the speedboat began to fill with water.

Commodore J. Howard Van Sciver, of Philadelphia, in command of Utopia, sped to the sinking speedboat and took the two Cliftons aboard. Johnson succeeded in beaching the Gee-Cee.

BRITONS AT OTTAWA WAIT LONDON ADVICE

fore tomorrow necessitating further conversations on agricultural preferences asked by the Dominions, Great Britain will reply to the offers of Empire countries with a view to adjourning by August 18 or sooner.

This was the situation the delegates found today, upon returning from the ceremonial opening of the new Welland Ship Canal yesterday, as a result of progress made during their absence by committees which plainly showed the effects of long hours of compromise.

Before leaving for the exercises at Thorold, which in the words of Lord Bessborough, Canada's governor general, formally opened Great Lakes shipping to world commerce, leaders of the commonwesith of nations, with the exception of the Irish Free State, had presented their quid pro quo to Great-Britain and left in her hands the fate of economic disarmament within the Empire.

The feeling persisted that, while the British considered some of the demands upon them out of keeping with international economic harmony, they were prepared to go a considerable length to aid the more distressed units of the realm.

New Zealand's problem was cited as representative in that respect.

Continental restrictions on foodstuffs, particularly Germany's, which places a virtual embargo on Danish butter, have made a dumping ground of British ports. Even the Devonshire farmer is unable to compete in the world markets for that commodity, much less the New Zealander.

New Zealand regards its export outlet as having been ruined and its cry for British preferences is regarded as reflecting the competitive state in which other Dominions find themselves.

That is why, in expert opinion, the political question of reversing Great Britain's age-old stand against food taxes appears to be a key to success of the conference. England has millions of dollars invested in the material welfare of her proteges, which depends on the prosperous export of natural products, and those close to her representatives here said they knew something must be done to protect their markets.

For herself, it was said authoritatively today, Britain has asked in return nothing more than an opportunity to get her manufactured goods into Canada and other Empire countries on even terms with inefficient industry. She was represented as recognizing the inherent right of the Dominions to protect their own enterprises so long as they were efficient enough to supply the domestic demand at reasonable costs.

The British point was understood to be that if the Dominions asked her to extend them favors against foreign competition she had a right to demand that her products not be barred because of tariffs to protect weakly managed and unbusinesslike industries.

Only by such manufacturers withdrawing from intraempire competition, it was reported, did Britain see an opportunity for the automatic rationalization of industry, which some believed to be the key to Empire cooperation.

With Great Britain's ancient policy of free trade in foodstuffs in the balance and her delegation subjected to criticisms of such leaders in Parliament as David Lloyd George, as well as criticism already appearing in the Beaverbrook publications, the British reaction here to proposals of Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett, of Canada, was considered significant.

Despite unofficial Canadian claims that additions to the free list and the broadening of preferential rates would open new markets worth from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually to British industry, spokesmen for the United Kingdom were reported to have whittled the figure down to a maximum of $20,000,000. They had expected no less than $50,000,000 on a basis of their own estimates, it was under-

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Roosevelt's Widow To Be Guest at White House

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER will have as their guest at the White House this week Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, who will arrive from Oyster Bay on Wednesday.

Miss Kathleen King, daughter of the United States senator from Utah and Mrs. William H. King, is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Lord, in Yonkers, N. Y.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, passed the week-end in New Castle, N. H.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late President, and her brother, Mr. Randolph Bolling, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pennington at their summer estate in Camden, Me.

Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson gave a beach roast Friday on Tilson Point, Conn., in honor of the house guests of their daughters, Miss Peggy Tilson and Miss Catherine Tilson and their son, Mr. John Q. Tilson, jr. Among these guests were Miss Jane Fowler, of New Haven, Conn., and Mr. Robert Sams, of Clear Branch, Tenn.

Dorothy Ruth Albert, daughter of Mrs. Fred Albert and neice of the Commissioner General of Immigration and Mrs. Harry E. Hull, has selected Saturday, August 27, as the date for her wedding to Dr. Howard James Curtis, at All Souls' Memorial Church. Canon Raymond L. Wolven of Washington Cathedral will officiate.

Dr. Curtis is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Curtis, of 6316 Delaware street, Chevy Chase. He is a graduate of Central High School and of the University of Michigan, Swarthmore College and Yale University. He received the degree of doctor of science in physics at the latter school last June. He is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, and Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity.

The bride will be escorted to the altar by Commissioner General Hull and will be given in marriage by her mother. She will be attended by Miss Ruth Griggs as maid of honor. The best man will be Mr. Dolph Atherton. Included among the ushers will be Mr. Harris B. Hull, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Roger Curtis, brother of the bridegroom. A program of nuptial music will be given by Mrs. Clarence R. Hammerness at the organ.

Following the wedding the couple will take a short wedding trip, later going to Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, where Dr. Curtis is associated with the Long Island Biological Association and where they will make their home.

Miss Albert was the guest of honor at a shower given last Friday by Mrs. Henry Finkel at the Westchester Apartments. Saturday Miss Mary Priest and Miss Elizabeth Reeves entertained in her honor at a luncheon at the Shoreham.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, who has been at his summer home in Sorrento, Me., will come to Washingtoon on Wednesday for several days' stay in the Capital. Mrs. Freeman will remain in Sorrento until his retrun.

Mrs. James M. Thomson, formerly Miss Genevieve Champ Clark, who has been visiting her brother, Col. Bennett Champ Clark and Mrs. Clark at their home in Clifton, Missouri, has gone to Bowling Green in that State, where she is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Champ Clark. Later in the season, Mrs. Thomson will be joined there by Mr. Thomson and they will then come north to visit Mr. Thomson's mother, Mrs. A. P. Thomson at Summit Point, W. Va.

Col. and Mrs. V. I. Peterson, of Washington, are in West Point, N. Y., as the guests of Maj. and Mrs. Robert L. Eichelberger.

Col. and Mrs. Clifton C. Carter, U. S A., have returned from Europe. They will remain here for several weeks before going to Col. Carter's post at West Point.

Among the new arrivals in the Army set in Washington are Col. and Mrs. Rex H. Rhoades. Col. Rhoades is to be chief of dental service in the surgeon general's office.

Maj. and Mrs. Thoburn K. Brown are in North Carolina, but will come to Washington shortly and establish their residence here.

Miss Fanton Becomes Bride Of John Samuel Thompson.

An interesting wedding of Saturday was that of Miss Ethel Hazel Fanton, niece of Capt. and Mrs. George C. Dow, of 1441 Spring road northwest, and John Samuel Thompson, son of Mrs. John T. Thompson, of 902 Ninth street southeast, which took place at the Church of the Transfiguration at 3 p. m. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, William C. Lauritzen, of Silver Spring, Md., and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Queally.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Winifred Thornton, and Miss Florence Wilson. Mr. Joseph Jamieson was the best man. Only members of the family and intimate friends were present.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, newly elected chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with Mrs. Pomerene, is now established at Wardman Park Hotel, having moved into their new apartment yesterday.

Mrs. Pomerene returned early yesterday from Cleveland, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. K. B. Brandt, and Mr. Pomerene's niece, Miss Margaret Pomerene, who will spend several days with them here.

Miss Lena Fabick and Miss Ida Fabick, of St. Louis, are spending a few days at the Dodge.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Halley entertained at the dinner dance on the Shoreham Terrace Saturday in honor of Mrs. Carl Anthony, of Baltimore, Md.

Miss Mary G. Kelly, of Philadelphia, who spent the week-end with Miss Sarah Bell at Wardman Park Hotel, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Peter Arrington, of Warrenton, N. C., has joined her cousin, Mrs. William Kearney Carr, of Washington, at Swampscott, Mass. Mrs. Carr has spent several seasons at the Massachusetts North Shore resort.

The Floradora Sextette is to be a most entertaining feature of "The Revue Intime" to be given Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week at Wardman Park Hotel by the Shoestring Production Company for the benefit of the children of the local unemployed. Miss Minnie Hawke is arranging the sextette. Mrs. Edward E. Gann heads the list of distinguished patrons and patronesses of this revue.

Costumes for the entire production have been loaned by Jack Mulane and original songs have been composed by Frank Westbrook and Harry Stevens.

The revue of intimate nature similar to recent popular successes from New York, was written and directed by Theodore Tiller 2d, with Gardner Brooks as musical director; Scott Lusby in charge of the scenery construction; staging and lighting by Kenn Romney; the University of Maryland's Collegians Orchestra and talented young thespians cast in important roles.

Miss Willa Sample is accompanying the dance groups from Lisa Gardiner, Minnie Hawks and the Denishawn studios. A group of subdebutante ushers headed by Miss Kathleen Walsh Orme and Miss Mollie-Rose Coker will distribute programs.

The proceeds raised by the revue intime will be given to Mr. Ernest Daniels, chairman of the local unemployment relief committee.

Mrs. Grace Hall Lincoln Brosseau, honorary president general of the D. A. R., who has been visiting friends on the North Shore, is at her home, Greenwich, Conn., for August.

Mrs. and Mrs. Basil Gordon, of Baltimore, are the guests of Mr. Gordon's mother, Mrs. George Barnett, at her country place, Wakefield Manor, Va.

Miss Dorothy Sollers, of Baltimore, is at Newport, R. I., where she is passing the summer with her cousin, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock.

Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Nash, of Weldon, N. C., are spending a few days in the Capital and are guests at the Dodge Hotel while here.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry F. Kaufman are sailing from New York on the Manhattan Wednesday for a month's visit in Europe, returning in September to their apartment at the Shoreham.

Mrs. Hariret P. Thomas, of Chicago, Ill., is a guest at the Dodge.

Mrs. Graham and Two Daughters Return Here.

Mrs. Joseph Graham and her daughters, Miss Ann Graham and Miss Etta Heartt, have returned to their apartment at the Shoreham after a month's visit to Cape May, N. J.

Mrs. Louis Smith, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived here over the week-end to make an indefinite stay, and she has engaged a suite at Wardman Park Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry P. Kenison, of Boston, Mass., who have been spending a short vacation at Wardman Park Hotel, returned to their home yesterday. Dr. Thomas P. Ford, of Waltham, Mass., with Mrs. Ford, has been at Wardman Park for a few days while sojourning in this city, and they are returning to their home some time today.

Among the nearly 500 passengers who sailed yesterday for vacations abroad on the French liner Lafayette was A. H. Fleming, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who will be abroad for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jenkins, of Washington, have joined the summer colony at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mrs. Levis Hamilton, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Holden are also at the resort for the season.

HOME BANK BOARD TO MEET AT ONCE

Selection of Cities to Place Institutions to Be One of First Tasks.

(Associated Press.)

The newly appointed Home Loan Bank Board will lose no time in putting into operation the complex machinery of a Nation-wide banking system expected by its sponsors to ease the mortgage burden on the struggling home owner.

Appointed only Saturday by President Hoover, the five-man bipartisan board headed by Franklin W. Fort, New Jersey banker and insurance man, will meet tomorrow to begin the important work of establishing from eight to twelve district banks in various parts of the Nation.

On the board with Fort, who served three terms as a Republican member of Congress, are:

William E. Best, Republican, of Pittsburgh, attorney and president of the United States Building and Loan League.

Others on Board.

Dr. John M. Gries, Republican, Rosewood, Ohio, economist and longtime associate of President Hoover in the Commerce Department.

Nathan Adams, Democrat, president of the First National Bank of Dallas, Tex.

H. Morton Bodfish, Democrat, Chicago, executive manager of the United States Building & Loan League and formerly connected with the National Real Estate Board.

Chairman Fort arrived here yesterday and talked over preliminary plans with Adams and Dr. Gries. Bodfish and Best had not yet reached Washington.

The chairman said he planned to call the first formal meeting of the board tomorrow morning when Best is expected to arrive. In the meantime he will continue his talks with members of the board.

One of the first tasks to confront the directors when they assemble here is selection of the cities where the banks will be located.

Each bank will have eleven directors and will be capitalized at a minimum of $5,000,000. Shares will be sold at $100 par value with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation standing ready to spend $125,000,000, if necessary, in subscribing the required capital.

Operation of Banks.

The individual home-owner will be able to borrow directly from the district banks if he can show beyond a doubt that he has been unable to obtain funds elsewhere. Building and loan associations, savings banks, cooperative banks, homestead associations and insurance companies will be able to borrow on home mortgages.

Organizations such as these will be required to subscribe for stock equal to 1 per cent of the unpaid principal of the total home mortgages held by them before being able to borrow.

Only mortgages on homes valued at $20,000 or less will be accepted as collateral at the home loan banks, as Congress designed the system to be of aid to small home owners.

The home loan bank system is the last of the reconstruction measures recommended by President Hoover and enacted at the last session.

Shakespearean Scholar, Enriched by Oil, Expires

Wichita Falls, Tex., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles William Wallace, 76, world-famous Shakespearean scholar, who left his books to make a fortune in oil, died here today. He had been ill for some time.

Obtaining leave from the University of Nebraska in 1917, he turned to oil investments here for funds to complete his researches. He operated alone, learned the business thoroughly and amassed a fortune in a few months.

SALISBURY TO MARK BICENTENNIAL TODAY

Mayor of British Namesake Aids Celebration of Maryland City.

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Commemorating the two hundredth birthday of its founding, Salisbury tomorrow will open its bicentennial celebration of a week of pageant, parade and special exercises.

Councilor J. S. Rambridge, Mayor of Salisbury, England, the mother city of this community, will officially open the celebration with the principal address of the week in the afternoon.

State Comptroller William S. Gordy, jr., chairman of the Bicentennial commission, will extend greeting to the visiting mayor and Mayor Wade H. Insley, of this city, will give an address of welcome.

Salisbury was founded by an act of the provincial assembly on August 8, 1732, establishing "Salisbury town" at the head of navigation of the Wicomico River, a short distance from the Chesapeake Bay.

Col. Isaac Handy, progenitor of a prominent Eastern Shore family, had settled there nearly 70 years before and had erected a trading post.

The history and growth of Salisbury will be depicted in a pageant Tuesday at the Municipal Park. The boys of the city will assume the public offices on Wednesday and run its affairs. A parade typifying the present American city, will be given in the harbor, with an inspection and boat races.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will visit the city Wednesday and take part in opening the House of Relics, displaying many styles and implements of the early settlers of the Eastern shore.

The U. S. naval airship Akron will visit the section one day during the week and aviatioon maneuvers, band concerts and a tennis tournament will add to the celebration each day.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THOSE GERMAN ELECTIONS.

THE neatest trick of the year: understanding what happened in a German general election. Even your best friends won't tell you.

* * * *

In America an election is held every four years, and even this is a little too frequent for the peace of the community. But in Germany they hold them every few days. Whenever things get dull somebody says, "Oh, let's have an election!" The suggestion meets with immediate approval, and off the people go to the polls to show Herr Hitler that he still wears his mustache the unpopular way.

* * * *

In most countries an election is an institution. In Germany it is a habit.

* * * *

What makes a German election so diverting is that it always results in a deadlock and the voters get rain checks to a double-header on the first clear Sunday. The score doesn't mean anything. All that counts is the notation under the box score: "Left on bases—Hitler."

* * * *

The Germans have the right idea: they run their elections so that practically nobody is disappointed. They have thirteen political parties. This makes it possible for a German voter to change his mind four or five times in one voting booth and still have three guesses in the next election without sacrificing any deep principles.

* * * *

There have been cases in big German households where one family has split its vote thirteen ways.

* * * *

Take the most recent election. The parties represented were the National Socialists, the Nationalists, the Populists, the Economists, the Christian Socialists, the Agrarians, the Catholic Centrists, the Bavarian People's party, the State party, Socialists, Communists and a couple of other fellows. It sounds like the list of lodges at a schuetzenfest.

* * * *

Adolf Hitler, the Hof Brau Mussolini, got the greatest number of votes, but lost the election.

* * * *

It's something like those international cup races. He has to give Von Hindenberg and Von Papen a time allowance for sail spread or something.

Of course, in a German election they are merely voting for membership in the Reichstag. The Reichstag is a progressive argument in which nobody is allowed the last word. It is a good deal like a tournament for lady contract bridge players.

* * * *

No matter how many votes you get in the Reichstag you never make game and rubber.

* * * *

And Gen Von Schleicher deals the cards and runs the game. He has an effective way of announcing results. When the election is over he wires Hitler: "You have received the greatest number of votes. We are therefore remaining in office on a vote of no confidence."

* * * *

It's lots of fun. If the candidates don't mind running the bases just for the exercise.

OLYMPICS IMPRESSION.

Men and women jumping hurdles,
Wearing little more than girdles—
Even these appear unravelin'
As they strive to hurl the javelin;
Lots of boys and lots of golls
Fencing swiftly with the foils;
People running many races,
Making most outlandish faces;
Beardless boys and men with whiskus
Throwing things they call the discus;
Ex-policemen throwing hammers,
In one-half of their pajammers—
On the beach I do my gym tricks,
Not in August hot Olympics.

* * * *

BROKER'S OFFICE TYPES.

HE had bought for the rise, and taken on some new lines after the first upward swing. He paced the floor happily, but obviously jumpy.

"What's the matter with Whoozlss?" asked a patron.

"Nervous optimism," said the junior partner.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

A NEW record for distance via telephone has been established at 17,000 miles or two-thirds of the distance around the earth. The conversation took place between Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Wellington, New Zealand. The route was from Buenos Aires to Madrid, Spain, by radio; landline and submarine cable to Rugby, England, and radio to New Zealand.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will address the Nation tonight in what the State Department described as an important discussion of America's foreign policy. The Secretary's special message to the people of the country will be delivered at 9 o'clock, via WRC, during the regular period of the National Radio Forum.

Secretary Stimson has not made a radio statement of similar importance in more than a year and a half.

Rhode Island, the smallest State in the Union, will receive the Parade of the States salute tonight (WRC, 8:30 p. m.). A medley of tunes by George M. Cohan, a native of Providence, by Frank Black's orchestra, with vocal interludes by Theodore Webb, barytone, and a chorus, will be a feature of the program.

JAMES WILKINSON, barytone, will sing "With a Song in My Heart," "Someday I'll Find You," "Dear Old Girl," and selections from "The Rogue Song" during the Washington Gas Light hour (WRC, 7 p. m.) tonight. The orchestra, conducted by Rudolph Schramm, will do several numbers, including "Drums In My Heart," "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," "Butterfly," and "Rain, Rain Go Away."

Nicolai Berezowsky, who is pinch-hitting for Howard Barlow, while the latter takes a vacation, has selected the following numbers for tonight's symphony concert (WMAL, 10:30):

Overture, "Forza del Destino" (Verdi); A Mules from "Impressions of Italy" (Charpentier); Sherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn); Allegro molto from G minor Symphony (Mozart); Moment Musicale (Schubert); Bueno Notte from Suite, "A Day in Venice" (Nevin), and Slavonic Dance No. 8 (Dvorak).

Andy Sannella, who at one time was soloist and conductor on eleven N. B. C. programs a week, will lead his new All-Star Radio Orchestra in the first of a series of programs over WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Sannella will announce his own programs for the first time. He has chosen "Moonlight Bay" as his new theme song. Sam Herman, xylophonist, will be heard in several specialties. Sannella also plans to introduce new vocal talent to radio, and his first vocalist will be Miss Billie Dauscha, a blues singer.

AFTER a month's vacation in his native Indiana, Singin' Sam is back in New York * * * Ted Weems and his orchestra have been added to the late evening entertainment of WMAL * * * After a two-week vacation which took her home to Memphis, Tenn., for the first time in three years, Irene Beasley, contralto, will return to the air today in a new five-night-a-week series (WMAL, 5 p. m.) * * * An operatic excerpt and four popular heart songs will be offered by Richard Crooks, tenor, during the Voice of Firestone program (WRC, 7:30 p. m.).

9th Straight Defeat for Pirates

Braves Jolt Leaders, Taking Double Bill, 2-1 and 7-6.

Worthington, Boston Star, Breaks Leg in 2d Game.

BOSTON, Aug. 7. (A.P.).—The Boston Braves extended the Pittsburgh Pirates' losing streak to nine consecutive games today by taking both ends of a double header, 2 to 1 and 7 to 6, before a crowd of 29,000. The double victory was an expensive one for the Braves, however, as Robert "Red" Worthington, hard-hitting Tribal left fielder, broke a leg sliding into third base in the first inning of the second game, and probably will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season.

Today's twin killing put the Braves back into third place, half a game ahead of the Phillies, who were idle.

Baxter Jordan, acquired from Baltimore to replace What-a-Man Shires, was at first base in both games and his triple off Swift in the seventh inning of the second game overcame a one-run lead and tied the score at four all.

Brandt Winner In Duel.

The first game was a pitching duel between Ed Brandt, Tribal left-hand ace, and Steve Swetonic, with honors going to the Boston southpaw, who chalked up his twelfth win of the season.

The Pirates jumped out in front with a four run lead in the first inning of the second game. The Braves piled up three runs in their half and tied the score in the seventh. Tony Piet's homer after Vaughan's single in the ninth gave the Pirates a two-run lead but the Braves crashed through in their half to win on singles by Maranville, Moore and Berger, passes to Jordan and Leach and an error by Vaughan which let the winning run across the plate.

Tom Padden went hitless after receiving a $500 check and other gifts by home-town admirers from Manchester, N. H.

Nats Option Kingdon To Chattanooga Club

Infielder Wes Kingdom, who has been fielding well and batting at a .324 clip, has been sent on 24-hour option to the Chattanooga Lookouts, President Clark Griffith of the Nationals announced last night. The Lookouts, a Washington farm, are in the thick of the pennant fight in the Southern Association, and needed Kingdom to fill in at second because Wally Dashiel, the regular, was injured.

Kingdom will be recalled as soon as Dashiel returns to the Chattanooga line-up, or immediately in case the Nationals lose the services of any of their infielders. He left Cleveland for Chattanooga last night.

Jack Dempsey Agrees To Bout at Tia Juana

Tia Juana, Mexico, Aug. 7 (A.P.)—Jack Dempsey has agreed to fight here Labor Day, Joe Levy, Tia Juana promoter, announced today.

The match would be held in the Foreign Club Arena, built four years ago for championship bouts. Levy said he assured the former champion 20,000 spectators. He expected to name Dempsey's opponent this week.

RACE TO PULCHERIMUS.

Deauville, France, Aug. 6 (A.P.)—Simon Guthmann's Pulcherimus won the classic Prix Municipalite at 2,000 meters today. The race carried with it a purse of 50,000 francs (about $2,000).

Henry Harper's Nantua was second; Mme. R. Sibilat's Halston third, and James Hennessy's Feu de Joie fourth. Pulcherimus won by two and a half lengths and paid 40 francs for 5 in the betting.

Indians Beat Nats Twice, 7-4, 6-2

Assault on Thomas in Third Brings Loss of Opener.

Hudlin Allows Only 4 Hits to Triumph in Second.

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—A vicious assault on Al Thomas in the third inning of the opener and Hudlin's sensational pitching in the second gave the Cleveland Indians two victories over Washington in a double-header here today, 7 to 4 and 6 to 2. The double victory put the Indians in second place and pushed the Nats dangerously near a berth in the second division.

Thomas pitched a good game for the Nats in the opener, but had the misfortune to run into a bad inning and the Tribe scored enough tallies in this frame to offset the Washington offensive for the entire game.

The Nats hit Russell hard and often, but could not bunch their nine blows effectively. Russell also received the aid of some sensational defensive work by both the infield and outfield.

Hudlin Master of Nats In Second.

Hudlin was master of the situation in the nightcap, being a complete puzzle to the Nats after the first inning. Two hits produced a run in the first and West opened the second with a single, but not another Washington batter reached first until Rice tripled with one out in the ninth. The Indians chased Brown off the hill in the fifth and continued their attack on Marberry to pile up a safe lead. Porter, with four singles, and Averill, with a single, double and triple, provided the punch that routed the Nats in this contest.

An error by Cronin started the scoring in the first game, Porter being safe on the fumble and counting on a single by Burnett and a long fly by Vosmik.

The Nats jumped into the lead in the second, however, scoring a trio of tallies on singles by Kuhel, Berg and Rice, a pass to Thomas and an error by Kamm.

Porter opened the Tribe's half of the third with a single and moved to third on Burnett's hit. Averill brought them both home with a triple and tallied while Bluege was retiring Sewell. Kamm's single brought in the fourth run of the inning.

Burnett's Home Run Hurts.

A pass to Kamm started another Indian rally in the sixth. Russell forced him and Porter skied out, but Burnett slapped the ball into the right field stands for a home run, scoring behind Russell. Averill followed with a triple, but was left stranded when Vosmik hoisted to West.

The Nats made an effort to get back in the ball game in the seventh, but the rally was cut short. Manush doubled and Kuhel singled for one counter, but the final six Nats went down in order in the last two frames.

Rice pried open the second contest with a single, but was forced by Myer. An infield out and single by Cronin sent Myer over with the first run of the game. The Indians tied it up in the second on a double by Vosmik and single by Sewell.

Averill opened the fourth with his twenty-sixth home run of the season to put the Indians in front and the Tribe proceeded to send Brown to the showers in the fifth.

Cissell tripled and scored when Cronin's throw on Kamm's grounder was too late to catch him at the plate. Brown's fumble saved Hudlin and Porter beat out a bunt to fill the bases. Burnett was called out on strikes, but Averill singled to score Kamm.

Myer Hurt in Collision With Rice.

With two balls on Vosmik, Marberry replaced Brown and got the Indian on a short fly to right. Myer and Rice collided on the play, Myer being knocked out, but he resumed play after a short rest. Morgan walked, forcing Hudlin over the plate. Sewell brought the inning to a close with a foul to Berg.

The Indians added another in the seventh when Averill doubled and scored on Vosmik's single.

A triple by Rice and Manush's single gave the Nats their final tally in the ninth.

Manager Walter Johnson will shoot his pitching ace, Monte Weaver, against the Indians in the third game of the series tomorrow. Hildebrand, Cleveland rookie, will be after his fifth straight triumph.

Champs of 1924 Intact For Nats' Game Aug. 15

Clark C. Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, yesterday wired Karl McNeely, manager of the Sacramento Baseball Club of the Pacific Coast League, air transportation to Washington to report for the Bicentennial game to be played here August 15.

Griffith has collected all members of the 1924 world champion team, including Bucky Harris, manager of Detroit; Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of Cleveland, and Goose Goslin, of St. Louis. Tom Zachary will be loaned by the Boston Braves.

U. S. Defeats Canada In Olympic Lacrosse

Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The United States today defeated Canada by a score of 5 to 3 in the first of a series of three demonstration lacrosse games as a part of the Olympic games program.

The game was interrupted late in the second half by the finish of the marathon.

The John Hopkins lads, representing America, finished strong. The score at the half was two to two, but the Baltimore boys scored three goals in quick succession in the second half.

YANKS SLUG WAY TO TWO VICTORIES

Get 29 Hits to Beat St. Louis, 11-5, 9-4; Ruth Gets Homer.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees performed heavy slugging today and defeated the St. Louis Browns in both games of a doubleheader, winning the first game 11 to 5 and the second 9 to 4. The Yankees got 29 hits in both games, while the Browns connected for only 15.

Crosetti, Yankee shortstop, hit a home run in each contest and brought in a total of eight runs, four in each game. Babe Ruth got his thirty-first homer of the season in the first game, with none on base, and he also hit a triple and two singles in five trips at bat.

Ruth 11 Homers Back Of Foxx.

Today's homer left him only one behind Chuck Klein and eleven behind Jimmy Foxx. Campbell, Browns' right fielder, also hit a home run in the first game.

The Yankees made 19 hits off Stewart, Gray and C. Fischer in the second contest.

Tigers Beat Red Sox, 3-1, on Stone's Homer

Detroit, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Johnny Stone hit a home run in the seventh inning with Gehringer on base today to break a deadlock and enable the Tigers to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1, in the series opener.

The Tigers found Ed Durham and John Welch for eleven hits, which went for twenty bases. Vic Sorrell yielded ten hits, but kept them well scattered.

Zabala, shaking off his strongest rivals with a great burst of speed over the last mile and a half, finished a good 200 yards ahead of Sam Ferris, of Great Britain, the runner-up, with Ville Toivonen, of Finland, third, and Duncan Wright, another British star, fourth.

The first four were so closely bunched, within 65 seconds of each other, that they were all within the stadium by the time Zabala reached the last turn and claimed the laurel wreath

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS earned the right to compete in the Capital City League championship series yesterday, outslugging Rock Creek Servicecenter, 16 to 15, in a weird ten-inning battle played before 5,000 fans on the West Ellipse. The losers were presented with the opportunity of sharing in a triple tie with the winners for the sectional honors, but with victory within their grasp on at least three occasions, slipped just enough to lose the decision.

The Dixie Pigs, finalists in the city championship last year and runners-up to the Takoma Tigers for the Metropolitan title, clinched the laurels in Section A, turning back their chief rivals, Ciro's Villagers, 10 to 6, in a well-played game. Dixie Pigs and the Heights nine will soon meet for the title. In other league games St. Josephs stopped Diamond Cab, 15 to 8, and the Horning Jewelers tripped Congress Heights, 9 to 8. Franc Jewelers forfeited to Federal Storage.

Sorrell's Bad Peg Costly.

Jules Sorrell, scrappy little Rock Creek backstopper, who has played a bang-up game behind the plate all season, threw away his team's chances for victory in the ninth inning by pegging wildly to Lisensky at third in an effort to catch Ben Spigel. The throw permitted Spigel to score, knotting the count, and in the next inning the Columbians pushed the winning marker over the pan.

Dick Nelson counted the big run, and his football knowledge was invaluable in the deed. He raced home from second on Jake Lewis' infield out, only to find Sorrell waiting for him with the ball. Nelson lunged at Sorrell with all the power at his command and was safe when the latter went sprawling on the dirt and dropped the ball.

The lead continually changed hands throughout the game. Rock Creek's big inning was the fifth, when it scored seven runs. The eventual winners equaled this with a "natural" in the sixth. Brilliant fielding plays were made by Fisher and Nau, of Rock Creek, and Wingate, of Columbia Heights. The losers used four pitchers in the game, Lanahan, Harris, Ensor and Russell, while Ben Spigel, although pounded unmercifully at times and rendered poor support on numerous occasions, went the route for the victors.

Jones Holds Ciro's to Nine Hits.

"Lefty" Jones held Ciro's to nine hits in chalking up the victory, while his mates were busy pounding the offerings of Di Nenna and McIntire for sixteen. "Babe" Clapper and "Huck" Stahl were the ring leaders in the attack, connecting for seven between them. Four runs in the third and three in the sixth decided the issue. The Villagers' runs were made in pairs. They came in the first, fifth and ninth innings.

A couple of lads named Joe Mills and Keegin poled circuit clouts to lead St. Joseph's to victory. Keegin knocked a triple also, getting four hits for the day. Larry Schneider hurled for the winners. Brandon and Winerich were best for the losers.

Buddy Timmons' relief hurling featured the Jewelers' victory. He helped out in the run-making also, getting three hits in four attempts. Ingram and Sugrue clouted triples for the losers, both of which figured prominently in the scoring.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Asbestos shook off the jinx Saturday and collected $5.42 when Faireno won and the roll is now $51.38. Today he is playing two longs. Maybe the sap knows something. Code 11, 8, 6, 7, 1, 25, 2, 3, 4. Joe lays off system due to uncertain track conditions.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, AUG. 7.

Mike stole my show yesterday when he sent me down Rubio which I passed along to you. That 12 to 1 didn't make you mad, I know. He came right back with a pair for tomorrow at Saratoga but I think the heat must have him. They are At Sunrise and Peturnal. The latter won for him the last time at 20-1.

I may have poisoned Pittsburgher Saturday, the consistent fellow passing out of the turf picture after breaking his leg. Faireno, my second choice, went on to win the race and the big dough. BILL.

FIRST RACE—CHAT EAGLE hasn't collected that first set of brackets, but this looks like the right spot. The son of Chatterton has been close up in four straight races and seems to have an edge here. DROMBO is a youngster I saw finish like an express train in Maryland last spring. This will be the first time out since Pimlico. May upset the dope. FANFERN ran a brilliant third and may take the show end again.

SECOND RACE—BRAVE AND BOLD will have DON ROMIRO and PREDICT to take care of in this sprint. Likes the distance and the track. Allen likely will ride and I expect to get 4 or 5 to 1 for my money.

THIRD RACE—MISS MELODY is a pretty keen young lady and can defeat this gathering, I do believe. Bit off a little too much the last time. TABAKU seems better for the place than LESSIE DEAR.

FOURTH RACE—TELA is as fit as hands can make him and tomorrow might be the day. Looks like WHIPPER CRACKER will be installed the favorite, but don't let that throw you off. MILD is a lot better than that last.

FIFTH RACE—I'm going to try to make CEE TEE beat IMPISH and ANNIMESSIC in this. The first named turned in a corker last Friday and that speed may carry him to the long end of the purse tomorrow.

SIXTH RACE—DORIS JEAN drops a couple of miles and, unless she broke a leg when she slowed down in that last, the daughter of Weaty Hogan should roll home. SUNIDAY outgamed as good as the rest in his last effort. ENGLEWOOD'S stretch drive may be good for third and all of it if the top pair make mistakes.

SEVENTH RACE—Here he is again, fellows. CHOSEN PAL can win this race if the power is turned on. If this is not the day, I'm going to place this one on the shelf. TROMBONE appears second best ahead of PRINCE VOLA.

EIGHTH RACE—Looks like we'll all have to go together on DON TASKER in the last. STRAIGHTAWAY and KLIP DRIFT to battle it out for the show.

Miss Marble Is Upset In Rye Tennis Event

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The elimination of Alice Marble, of San Francisco, featured play in the Eastern grass court tennis championships today as rain cut the day's program to seven matches.

Miss Marble bowed to Mrs. A. J. Lamme, jr., of Rye, 3—6, 6—2, 9—7. Miss Marble led at 5—3 in the third set only to have the Easterner deuce the count at 6—6. Miss Marble then won her own service, but dropped the next two games and match. Mrs. Lamme's victory sent her into the third round.

A round ahead were Donnie Miller, of Los Angeles, and Marjorie Sachs, of Cambridge, Mass. Miss Miller, who gained two rounds yesterday through a first round bye and the default in the second round of Mary Greef, of Kansas City, defeated Mrs. Carolyn Hirsch, of White Plains, 6—1, 6—3. Her next opponent will be Miss Marjorie Sachs, victorious today over Florence le Boutillier, of Glen Cove, N. Y., 8—6, 3—6.

A downpour of rain shortly after noon forced postponement of the program until tomorrow.

Gomez's Spell Over A's Broken by Haas' Homer

New York (A.P.).—Lefty Gomez, star southpaw of the New York Yankees, has a just complaint at the manner in which the Philadelphia Athletics finally broke his spell over them.

After trimming the A's six times this season, Gomez went into a game in Philadelphia in the ninth inning, pitched to just two batters, but emerged the loser. One of the batters was Mule Haas, who hit a home run with a man on base to give the A's an 8-7 victory.

BETHESDA-WHEATON SPLIT.

With Royer holding the opposition to five hits, the Bethesda Firemen squared accounts with Wheaton yesterday, winning the second game of a double-header, 10-5. Wheaton copped the verdict by a 12-4 margin in the initial game.

EASTON BLUE JAYS BOW.

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Aug. 7.—The Middletown, Del., Team defeated the Easton Blue Jays at Federal Park this afternoon, 12 to 7. Coulby led at bat for Easton, being up five times and making a home run, two two-base hits, a single and getting a walk. Carter was in the box for Easton and was hit hard, while Wolf pitched fine ball for the visitors.

COLUMBUS RELEASES PAIR.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Pitchers Harlan Wysong and Pete Donohue were released by the Columbus American Association Baseball Club today. Wysong, owned by the Cincinnati Reds, was sent to Houston of the Texas League. Donohue was released outright. He was signed a few days ago as a free agent.

MANOR CLUB GOLF TEAM WINNER

Hertzberg and Glaser Tie at Woodmont; McCarthy Stars.

MANOR CLUB'S golf team yesterday entertained representatives of the Catoctin Club, of Frederick, but on the links gave their guests a rude reception, winning by a margin of 28½ to 10½.

The results:

Carl Smook and Leo Colliflower (C), 1; Harry Pitt and Maurice Nee (M.), 2; E. Rhodick and C. Hudson (C.), 0; Dermott Nee and R. P. Gibson (M.), 3; A. Quinn and S. W. Ray (C.), 1½; D. N. Dunham and I. C. Donohoe (M.), 1½; G. S. L'Farce and Dr. J. A. Long (C.), 1½; R. McClayton and J. J. Remey (M.), 2½; A. H. Etchison and J. E. White (C.), 0; C. W. Stoddard and H. A. Neff (M.), 3; J. A. Mahurin and F. Pettrutti (C.), 0; Putnam and George D. See (M.), 0; H. J. Lidherz and W. D. Lidherz (C.), ½; E. M. McClelland and C. Schroedal (M.), 2½; Dr. R. S. Lanadale and R. E. Brown (C.), 0; E. J. Merrick and Harry Grier (M.), 3; A. D. Collums and W. S. Delaphane (C.), 0; C. M. Travers and S. J. Pickett (M.), 3; E. Whitzel and Dr. Thomas (C.), 0; George F. Ashton and W. W. Dean (M.), 3; Col. Markey and M. J. Crognan (C.), 1; C. H. Deck and H. K. Deck (M.), 2; Dr. Trail and W. Harrod (C.), 0; H. G. Wood and T. M. Beavers (M.), 3; Earl Derr and Z. Rogers (C.), 0; W. W. England and H. J. Kaps (M.), 3.

Lewis Hertzberg and Stanley Glaser tied for first place in the Woodmont Club sweepstakes yesterday, each scoring a net of 70. Hertzberg shot a 100 and had a handicap of 30. His rival scored 95—25. Sidney Reizenstein and Philip King tied for third place, the former scoring 100—28—72 and the latter 90—18—72.

Beaver Dam members yesterday evening were occupied with gossip on the eagles registered by M. F. McCarthy, recent winner of the golf committee tournament, and H. A. Strong. McCarthy on the 445-yard eighth hole saw his second shot with a No. 3 iron disappear in the cup and then went on to romp home in 73 strokes, one over par. Strong went from the ridiculous to the sublime on the 313-yard first hole, for after topping his tee shot he sunk his brassie for a deuce.

Bausch Won Decathlon And Lost 15 Pounds

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—"Jarring Jim" Bausch, the new world champion in the decathlon, lost exactly 15 pounds during the two-day grind, in which he smashed all records.

Otherwise he said he felt no ill effects of the strenuous all-around test. His "football knee" did not bother him at all, despite the strain of two hours of pole vaulting alone on the final day.

Bausch's coach, Brutus Hamilton, of Kansas, indicated "Jarring Jim" would retire from competition soon, for business reasons.

In six of the ten events, Bausch said, he did as well or better than ever before in decathlon competition. These were the pole vault, javelin, 1,500-meter run, shot put, broad jump and 400-meter run. He was somewhat off his best marks in the 100-meter dash, 110-meter hurdles, discus and high jump.

MT. RAINIERS GAIN JUNIOR LEAD TIE

Overtake Merchants by Routing Swann Nine, 12 to 3.

MOUNT RAINIER climbed up on even terms with the leading Southwest Merchants in the junior division of the Capital City League yesterday, by routing Swann Service, 12 to 3, while the Merchants were being held to a 3-to-3 tie by Fussell-Young in a five-inning game. Georgetown avenged itself on Dixie Polish for a previous defeat by winning over the latter, 8 to 4.

Fradin and Chewning were the outstanding players in the Swann Service victory. Between them they held their opponents to four widely scattered blows. Ed Luckett, with three hits, and Moxley, with four, had leading roles in the victory.

Talburt Pitches Well.

Stump Talburt hurled brilliantly for Georgetown against Dixie Polish, and with the exception of the fifth inning had his opponents completely at his mercy. In that frame he walked four men in a row, forcing in one run, and a single accounted for the others. Chanconas, Ken Nau and Virnstein topped the Georgetown batting.

Fussell-Young was leading, 4 to 3, in the seventh inning, and had two men on base, with only one out, when the game was called yesterday, robbing his team of victory. Protests to the umpires went unheeded. The arbiters decided that the teams were taking too much time to finish the fray, despite the fact that the next teams to use the field were willing to wait for the ending of the inning.

Celtics Beat Phoenix, 13-2, as Dreifus Stars

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 7.—St. Mary's Celtics proved too strong for the Phoenix A. C., of Washington, in a game played here today and literally swept the visitors off their feet with a 13-to-2 victory. "Ike" Dreifus pitched for the Celtics and held his opponents scoreless until the ninth inning. He allowed only seven hits. Hamilton and Young led the winning attack.

Millers Trounce Dor-A's For League Senior Crown

THE 1932 senior championship of the Capital City League passed into the hands of the Miller Furniture Co. nine yesterday as it administered a 19-to-4 defeat to the Dor-A club. It was the second straight victory for the Millers in the title series.

"Tut," elongated curve-ball artist of the victors, held the Dor-A batters at bay throughout the game, checking them with six hits. Dor-A bunched three of these in the sixth frame and, coupled with an error, made three of its runs.

Millers Pound Birch From Hill.

The Miller sluggers applied themselves with admirable diligence to solving the offerings of Birch in the first two innings, and succeeded in driving him from the mound at the start of the third. Rube Ruble, who relieved Birch, was treated in the same unmerciful fashion and he gave way in the fifth to Ball, who finished the game. The eventual winners scored nine runs in the fifth.

"Little Knocky" Thomas and Benner clouted homers for the Millers, and Turner and McAboy socked three-baggers, to take the lead in the attack. Benner hit safely in four of his five appearances at the plate and Don Raub drove out two singles in three chances. Numerous substitutes were inserted in the game for the Millers when the victory was assured.

MOUNT RAINIERS WIN.

Piling up a lead in the early innings of the game, Mount Rainier defeated the Hyattsville All-Stars yesterday in the third and deciding game of their series by a score of 9-3. Bill Hoffman held the losers to eight well-scattered hits in winning for the Mounties. Jack Mattingly's home run with Mosedale on base featured the winning attack. Stevens, with two hits in two trips to the plate, showed to the best advantage for the losers.

PASSENGER KILLED AS AUTO HITS POLE

Another Man Dying and Several Are Hurt in Week-End Crashes.

One man is dead, another is not expected to live and several persons suffered severe injuries in automobile accidents in and near Washington over the week-end, as local police at an early hour this morning were searching for the driver of a hit-and-run machine which struck an unidentified person on a downtown street.

George M. Cotts, 29, of 218 E street northeast, was instantly killed last night when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into a telephone pole on River road near Potomac, Md. The driver of the machine, Russell H. Tracy, 27, of 55 M street northwest, was arrested by Maryland police and charged with manslaughter.

According to witnesses, the machine was traveling at a high rate of speed. Tracy apparently lost control and the car careened from the road and struck a pole. The Rockville Rescue Squad took Tracy to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring. He was treated for lacerations and bruises.

Policeman John Butts, of the Rockville headquarters, arrested Tracy on the manslaughter charge. Cotts' body was removed to the Colonial funeral home in Rockville.

Man Near Death After Upset.

William Orick, 22 years old, an employe of the Salvation Army, is near death in St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, Md., after the machine he was driving ran from the highway and overturned on the Camp Meade road near the Washington-Baltimore boulevard.

Police said his car failed to make a sharp turn, careened from the road and turned over in a field.

Two brothers, Charles and Samuel Breedin, passengers in Orick's car, suffered severe lacerations and bruises. All three were taken to St. Agnes Hospital by Maryland State Policeman M. H. F. Dearsaul. Physicians held little hope for Orick's recovery. He suffered a fractured skull, fractured collar bone, several fractured ribs and severe lacerations. The trio said they were living at 102 Constitution avenue northwest.

Gerald Hicks, of 200 Duke street, Alexandria, lost an ear in an automobile collision on the Gunston Hall road, about 3 miles east of the Washington-Richmond highway, in Fairfax County, Va., yesterday afternoon.

Crash on Blind Curve.

The accident occurred on a blind curve when an automobile driven by Leon Abraham, of Ballston, crashed head-on into one driven by Lewis Manley Hicks, of 200 Duke street. The injured were taken to the Fort Humphreys Hospital for treatment and later removed to the Alexandria Hospital. Agnes L. Hicks and Lewis Hicks were treated for cuts and bruises. Both cars were badly damaged.

Two sisters, Louise and Alicia Allen, 15 and 13 years old, respectively, were slightly injured when struck and knocked down by an automobile at New Mexico and Cathedral avenues northwest. They suffered lacerations and bruises and were treated at their home, 3115 Forty-sixth street northwest, by a private physician.

Police said the machine which struck the girls was operated by Lee B. Hardell, 30 years old, of 30 Cortland place northwest. The accident was termed unavoidable.

Although police at the Traffic Bureau sent a look-out for the driver of a hit-and-run automobile, they were unable to say where the accident happened or who was injured. A report of details surrounding the accident itself had not been made early today by the policeman assigned to investigate.

Young Wife Who Tried To Die Is Unimproved

Mrs. Renee Shaw, 18, of 3611 Canal road northwest, who Saturday attempted to end her life by swallowing nineteen headache tablets, two cigarettes and a bottle of antiseptic solution, was transferred from Sibley to Gallinger Hospital yesterday.

Her condition was unimproved. She told police she attempted to end her life because she "was disgusted with life."

One of 2 Bank Theft Suspects Is Released

Edward Dee, 40, of Philadelphia, one of two suspects in the recent robberies of two branches of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, was released yesterday when several witnesses to the holdups failed to identify him.

The other man, Edward Workman, 28 years old, of Columbia, S. C., is being held for further investigation.

150 TO PARTICIPATE IN YOUTHS' PAGEANT

Juvenile Day Program to Be Presented at Sylvan Theater Wednesday.

More than 150 boys and girls representing five outstanding organizations and agencies in the Capital City will participate in the juvenile day program Wednesday evening at 6:45 at the Sylvan Theater in the Monument Grounds under auspices of the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission. The program is one of the summer festival series, conducted weekly under supervision of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital.

The participating organizations are Friendship House, Neighborhood House, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts and Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. "Camp Stay-at-Home." The U. S. Navy Band, conducted by Lieut. Charles Benter, will assist, opening the celebration with a patriotic program of music.

Patriotic Tableau.

"The Massing of the Colors" will be presented by Friendship House, with the following children taking part: Marion Donaldson, Sylvia Gallagher, Patricia McClendon, Mary Watts, Mary Donaldson, Anna Owens, Gladys Dunn, Betty McClendon, Evelyn Moreland, Bertha Paul, Helen Putnam, Norma White, Lorraine Coyle, Marion Lipscomb, Mildred Simon, Gertrude Simon, Theresa O'Brien, Margaret Higgs.

Miss Mary Apple, contralto, will assist the Girl Reserves in the presentation of "The Moon Maiden," directed by Miss Dorothea McDowell and Miss Helen Middelton. There will be 40 participants, including Mary Lesta Wakeman, Marjorie Lipske, Nancy Brock, Peggy Anthony, Jessie Redfield, Betty Evart, Carol Hopkins, Mary Rose Manning, Betty Jane Rohow, Jean Volland, Eileen Weltner, Ruby Acree, Mildred Baitz, Ruth Horner, Frances Laughton, Elizabeth Kein, Eleanor Shreve and Ruth Smith.

Indian Life to Be Portrayed.

"Character Studies of the American Indians" will be the offering of the Salvation Army juvenile group under the direction of Capt. Douglas Eldredge, being a series of characteristic songs, dances and ceremonies. Among those taking part will be Joseph McKernon, Ernest Wixson, Dewey Tinsman, Barnet Potter, Elmer Warner, Glenn Johnson, Frank Johnson, Stanley Dunn, James Pollen, James Yowell, Carl Wilkinson, Louis Gunther, Odel Cloud, Joe Huddle, William Stant, Raymond Buddington, Oliver Fones, Robert Baldwin, Lathan Tafft, Harry Shaw and George Redmon.

There will be a limited number of chairs available at 25 cents to those not wishing to sit on the grassy hillsides to view the performance. The program will be amplified by the United States Signal Corps.

Seaside Park Outing Planned by Synagogue

The Tifereth Israel Congregation and the Ladies Auxiliary of the synagogue will hold an excursion to Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Sunday.

The following committee is in charge of arrangements: A. L. Schiller, chairman, Mrs. Yeta Katzman, Mrs. M. Brotman, Mrs. Zelda Alpert, Mrs. J. Cohen, Mrs. M. Winters, S. Beloff, S Rod, the Rev. M. Goldman, S. Levinson, M. Zanoff, A. Solis, Mrs. M. Harrison, Mrs. Ida Ginsburg and Mrs. S. Levinson. A program of athletic contests and games is being arranged.

Children at Goodwill To Stage Camp Show

Children at Camp Goodwill will stage a show tonight in a reception to about 60 members of the Community Chest Speakers Bureau. The reception was planned by the summer outings committee of the Associated Charities, sponsor of the camp.

At Camp Pleasant, operated at Blue Plains, D. C., for colored children and mothers, by the Associated Charities, the third summer group will return home after a successful vacation.

$94.50 Taken by Thief In Quebec Place Home

Roy W. Hurley, of 743 Quebec place northwest, yesterday told police his home was entered Saturday night by forcing a rear door, and $90 in cash was stolen from a second floor room.

His wife, Mrs. Louise Hurley, said that $4.50 was taken from her pocketbook in a bureau drawer.

K. of C. to Confer On Fete at Statue

General Assembly to Plan for Cardinal Gibbons Unveiling Aug. 14.

Completion of plans for the unveiling of the statue to the late Cardinal Gibbons, August 14, is expected Wednesday night at the meeting of the Washington general assembly of fourth degree Knights of Columbus. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

Thomas J. Trodden, newly elected faithful navigator, will preside. Other matters to come before the meeting include a report of the committee in charge of obtaining electric lighting for the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Daniel J. Callahan, supreme treasurer, will speak briefly, outlining activities planned for the coming convention.

FRATERNAL GROUPS OPEN SESSION TODAY

400 Leaders Here for Forty-sixth Convention; 85 Societies Represented.

Section meetings will open the annual convention of the National Fraternal Congress in the Hotel Mayflower today. More than 400 fraternal leaders from the United States and Canada will be present.

This is the second time in 46 years the congress has met in Washington. It was formed here November 16, 1886. The program planned emphasizes the Bicentennial observance and a pilgrimage will be made to Mount Vernon, where Gov. Pollard of Virginia will speak on the life of George Washington.

Delegates to the convention are national officers of 85 of the largest fraternal benefit societies. These bodies embrace all creeds and numerous races as well as workingmen from various fields. On the list of accredited representatives are the following groups: Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Catholic Order of Foresters, Degree of Honor of Kansas, Free Sons of Israel, the Maccabees, German Beneficial Union, Order of Scottish Clans, Royal Neighbors of America, and others.

These societies have a combined membership of approximately 6,000,000, including 1,000,000 junior members. Expansion of the juvenile activities and the welfare work carried on at an expense of $3,000,000 annually will be major topics of discussion at the four-day gathering.

The following sections begin their deliberations today in advance of the commencement of general sessions tomorrow: Presidents, secretaries, medical, law and press, the latter to be addressed by Osgood Roberts, former Washington newspaperman, now engaged in public relations work.

The annual banquet will be held tonight in the Mayflower grand ballroom.

$25 Loot Taken From Home.

A quantity of jewelry valued at $13 and $12 in cash was stolen from the home of James B. Hartmen, 400 Allison street northwest, he reported to police yesterday.

REBUILT SHIP HOLDS FIRST CHURCH RITES

Presentation of Bibles Sets Record on "Old Ironsides" Since 1849 Cruise.

For the first time since the frigate Constitution was taken out of commission, in 1881, church services were held yesterday morning on her decks at the Washington Navy Yard, where she is docked.

Lieut. Stanton W. Salisbury, chaplain, U. S. N., officiated and the Navy Band played. The Rev. Edgar Cordell Powers, chaplain of the Maryland National Guard, preached.

The Rev. George William Brown, general secretary of the American Bible Society, presented Commander Louis J. Gulliver of the Constitution with a Bible for the ship. Later a presentation of Bibles was made to officers and men.

The Constitution already has two religious relics carefully guarded in a glass case. One is the Bible taken from the British ship Java after her defeat by "Old Ironsides," December 29, 1812, off Brazil. It is interesting to note that the Americans destroyed their prize but apparently had time to remove the ship's Bible before doing so.

The other relic is a rosary which was presented to the ship by Pope Pius IX on the occasion of his visit to the Constitution in company with Ferdinand II, King of Sicily, August 2, 1849, at Gaetna, Italy, during a cruise in the Mediterranean. When Pope Pius made this presentation, it is the only time a pontiff has been known to set foot on American soil, according to the Navy Department.

Fourteenth Street Way To Highway Span Opens

Sunday traffic yesterday enjoyed free sway on Fourteenth street between Water street and Highway bridge for the first time since April when the thoroughfare was partly closed for regrading and repaving. The heavier traffic of the week-end flowed easily and smoothly through the area without the usual Sunday tieups which have marked Sunday travel there for the last three months.

With the opening of the new improvement motorists found a 60-foot thoroughfare with a straighter course through Potomac Park. The abandoned Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway tracks have been removed.

Missing Roanoke Boy, 14, Believed to Be Here

Washington authorities were asked yesterday to aid in locating Martin Buck, jr., 14, who has been missing from his home in Roanoke, Va., since July 26.

Police were told that the boy is supposed to be selling newspapers in Washington. He is rather large for his age, it was declared, and wears glasses. When last seen he was dressed in a gray cap, blue shirt and tan shoes.

MINISTER PREACHES ON PURPOSE IN LIFE

Follow Example of Christ, Advice of Rev. H. R. Deal at M. E. Church.

"We human creatures are innately dissatisfied with things and conditions," declared the Rev. Haskell R. Deal, assistant pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, preaching yesterday morning.

"We are discontent with everything in its present status. This is one of the innate characteristics of our being as citizens of the human race and in the realm of the Divine and spiritual," Mr. Deal went on.

"This innate characteristic and longing of our souls may be misguided and obscured by inadequate and incompetent purposes and goals. This innate human urge and ambition to move out of the present, with its handicaps and inadequacies has led us into a bewildering and startling world of new things, and new conditions.

"There has come such a floodtide of accomplishments, such a bewildering success in the expenditure of human genius against the material elements, that it has left us almost hopelessly in a state of confusion. In all of it, however, there is a wide recognition of the fact that being what we are as human beings created with spiritual and Divine purposes, these material successes are not adequate. They fall as worthy purposes and accomplishments for our higher spiritual sensibilities and cravings.

"A mere success, a cheap success in our material world has miserably failed as an adequate purpose for human life. Our present civilization has been too largely built upon material values. It has been far too largely motivated by ambitions for material results. The paralyzing difficulty is, that there seems to be no ability or leadership adequate to direct or utilize the great harvest of material success which our race attains.

"In the purpose and example of Christ there is an adequate goal and purpose for human life.

"In Him there is power and purpose to utilize and worthily direct all human successes to goals of permanent success and eternal good. Christ and His purpose of making the human face the family of God is the only adequate purpose for humanity. Religion, and that the religion of Jesus Christ is the only safe guide and salvation of humanity."

2 Capital Autoists Held After Row With Police

George M. Belsnider, of 105 Longfellow street northwest, was arrested in Takoma Park, Md., last night and charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

His arrest followed a brief struggle between two policemen and John J. Carter, of Takoma Park, who was a passenger in the machine. Town Policeman Earl Thomas saw Belsnider's car traveling through Takoma. His suspicions became aroused, and, after summoning County Policeman James E. Shoemaker, the pair were arrested. Carter was charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Woman's Skull Broken By Hatchet Mate Uses

Alice Jackson, colored, 38, of 3226 Grace street northwest, received a fractured skull yesterday morning when her husband, Charles Henry Jackson, 62, struck her in the head with a hatchet during a fight at their home.

She was removed to Emergency Hospital, where her condition is said to be serious. Jackson was arrested and charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

Police Halt Fancy Riding Over Links

Suspended Sergeant and Another Arrested on Golf Course.

Eccentric horsemanship on green No. 7 at Rock Creek golf course resulted in the arrest yesterday afternoon of Detective Sergt. Robert Joseph Barrett, suspended after the third degree investigation of last year, and Ray Moore, 30, of 310 Eleventh street southwest.

The two riders were taken to the Second Precinct and charged with drunkenness, disorderly conduct and destroying Government property. They were released on $40 bond each.

C. E. Shifflette, a special policeman at the golf course, said the two horsemen were "cutting up." He tried to restrain them, he said, and they charged him. Park Policeman J. M. Compton assisted him in arresting the men.

New Airplane Express Service Starts Today

An air express service encompassing Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York, Norfolk and this city will be inaugurated today as part of the General Air Express System connecting 138 cities, it was announced yesterday by James M. Eaton, president of the Ludington Airlines, Inc.

Seven major airlines and the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. are involved in the system.

Existence of God Is Topic of Bowen

Catholic Evidence Guild President Is Heard on Campus of C. U.

John G. Bowen, president of the Catholic Evidence Guild, spoke yesterday afternoon on the Catholic University campus. His subject was "The Existence of God." Mr. Bowen said in part:

"Though we may theorize upon the uncertain claims of evolution, though we may hear the unbeliever say that a speck of nebulous cloud dust started the ball of the universe rolling, yet we demand the answer. From whence that first, that primeval, speck of dust? Is there a God? Few have said there is not. Fewer still, I think, believe there is not, none has proved there is not."

James Allen Nolan also spoke.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT IS PERHAPS a significant fact that the final standings of the film players voted upon in response to the Motion Picture Herald's questionnaire soliciting information from 12,000 American theaters as to which stars drew the greatest patronage to the box office during the past year should remain virtually unchanged from the results of the first tabulation, insofar as the first ten are concerned.

At the very outset, Marie Dressler headed the list and, now that the final count is in, still does. With one exception, the nine rated next below are the same as originally, although the order of their standings has been slightly altered from one count to another. Joe E. Brown has permanently supplanted Wheeler & Woolsey (teamed) as last of the first ten.

The final ratings, with percentages indicating the degree of their representation in the total and final number of ballots counted, are as follows: Marie Dressler, 71 per cent; Janet Gaynor, 65; Joan Crawford, 60; Charles Farrell, 51; Greta Garbo, 50; Will Rogers, 42; Norma Shearer, 49.5; Wallace Beery, 47; Clark Gable, 46; Joe E. Brown, 30.5.

The next ten, grading from 30 per cent down to 19, are the Marx Brothers (teamed), Wheeler & Woolsey (teamed), Eddie Cantor, Maurice Chevalier, Constance Bennett, George Arliss, James Dunn, Sally Eilers, Marlene Dietrich and Lionel Barrymore.

In this tabulation of national ratings, based strictly on box office drawing power, it is a little surprising to find Barbara Stanwyck, George O'Brien and Jack Holt in the third ten, while Ruth Chatterton, Richard Barthelmess and John Barrymore are in the fourth. As a matter of fact, the entire result—below the ranking ten—furnishes a succession of startling revelations as to how at variance with the national estimate of many players Washington's appraisal really is.

It may possibly bear repetition that the first ten gives Metro-Goldwin-Mayer a preponderant majority of six potent box office personalities. Fox comes next with three, and First National is represented by one.

Speaking of box-office attractions, if RKO-Keith's can maintain the pace it proposes to set beginning next Friday, when "American Madness" is scheduled to inaugurate the "Greater Show Season," instituted by Radio-Keith-Orpheum and affiliated companies, four weeks of exceptional entertainment may confidently be expected by the theater-going public of this city.

"American Madness" was previewed by the press and a small invited audience last Saturday midnight and turned out to be a shrewdly contrived bit of footage that never fails to be interesting and frequently becomes genuinely exciting. It may not present an absolutely true picture of American banking, or the type of financiers engaged in it, but it does base a sure and reasonably universal appeal upon a deft utilization of dramatic commodities with which the American public at the moment is vitally concerned. Interspersed with its—so to speak—hooey is a wealth of keen common sense, a vast amount of homely human nature and an almost continuous flow of effective comedy.

My friendly tip would be to put this close to the top of next week's list.

Surprise! Surprise! Cards from Maxine Doyle and Joan Gale—the former the vacationing mistress of ceremonies playing truant from the Earle; the latter, one of Gale Quadruplets about to enter pictures on the West Coast under a Fox contract, in case you are a stranger here—depicting the tranquil sylvan beauties of Shady Side, Md., the momentary scene of their joint rusticating. Yeah, "Having a swell time; wisht you wuz here!"

Two former m. c.'s headed for local stages—Leon Navara, pianist, returning to the Earle to headline the vaudeville, beginning Friday; Alex Callam, barytone, to the Fox a little later. Both good boys, as you will recall.

Oh, of course, if you call 105 hot!

WORSHIPPING GODS OF GOLD ATTACKED

Dr. Gordon, of Norfolk, Cites Betrayal by False Deities at Union Service.

Worship of "gods of gold that have turned out to be little tin gods, unable to deliver the goods" brought about present economic conditions, and has shown the failure of the material philosophy of life, is the belief of the Rev. C. M. Gordon, minister of the First Christian Church, of Norfolk, Va., as stated to a large congregation at the union service yesterday in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church. All Souls' Unitarian and the National Memorial Universalist Churches cooperated in the service.

"We have followed that philosophy as the surest guarantee of material success," said Dr. Gordon, whose subject was "Religion and Hard Times." "We now discover that the gods of gold and silver have failed us; they have betrayed us with glamorous hopes and glittering promises. Yesterday we were bragging about being the richest nation on earth; today we are piling up enormous deficits and finding it an almost insuperable job to balance our budgets. The gods of gold we have worshipped have turned out to be little tin gods who have been unable to deliver the goods.

"In this situation religion delivers to our Nation a strong and vibrant challenge to get back to the spiritual fundamentals of life. Once again we must come face to face with God. We must grind the golden calf into powder, burn it in the fire, and enthrone God and the Golden Rule in its place. We must make all our parliaments places in which the spirit and the law of God are written into the statutes of men. We must make our mills and factories temples of friendly industry in which Jesus Christ Himself, the carpenter of Nazareth, would be happy and proud to labor.

"The inspiration of religious faith in these trying days saves us from the peril of panic and the danger of moral disintegration. It prevents us from stampeding and going to pieces; saves us from that collapse of soul which drives us to drown our sorrows in drink or to forget them in an hectic orgy of unrestrained living."

Youth in Industrial Home School Escapes

Police yesterday were asked to be on the lookout for John Thomas Russell, 16, who escaped from the Industrial Home School, 2353 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

The boy was described as being about 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing about 151 pounds. He was dressed in the school uniform. Authorities said he walked from the grounds shortly after noon.

Sleeping Man's $67 Stolen.

Peter Moss, of the Astoria Apartments, Third and G streets northwest, yesterday reported to police the theft of his billfold, containing $67. The purse was taken from his pocket, Moss said, while he was asleep.

Motion Pictures and Dance Also Arranged Tomorrow at Eckington.

A group of Washington boys, directed by Jack Haas, will present an acrobatic act as one of the entertainment features tomorrow night at Eckington Recreation Center, First and T streets northwest. The boys, who are expert tumblers, also will be seen in wrestling and boxing bouts in the stadium. Motion pictures of early American history, also in the stadium, will follow the athletic program. A community dance will be held.

The Eckington drama group, directed by Mrs. Aurora M. Poston, assisted by Frank Jamison, will meet every Tuesday and Friday evening at 8 in McKinley Auditorium, beginning this week, in order to perfect rehearsals of two short plays to be presented as one of the features of the official closing night of the summer sessions at Eckington, which will take place Tuesday evening, August 30, at 8 o'clock.

The drama group, comprising fourteen experienced players of Washington, will present Alice Gertsenberg's "Potboilers," and Frank H. Tompkins' "Sham."

The Eckington Center rhythm and drama group for children, which during July was directed by Miss Evelyn Davis, and is now under the direction of Miss Ruth Hartung, also is engaged in weekly rehearsals every Wednesday morning, from 10 to 12 o'clock, for the official closing program of the summer season. This group includes 24 girls and boys, all of whom will participate in the dance program on that occasion.

All regular activities at Eckington Recreation Center, sponsored by the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, the Playground Department and the Community Center Department, will continue throughout August.

$50 Stolen From Safe Of Auto Service Station

A safe in the office of an auto service station at 4326 Wisconsin avenue was robbed of $50 yesterday morning while Ralph R. Myers, manager of the station, was greasing a car.

Myers furnished police with the name of a man in the office who Myers thinks knows the combination of the safe.
